NEW WAVE OF MINE STRIKES HITS OHIO PITS

Work Stoppages Spread from Pennsylvania; 14 Mines Are Closed.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, May 20—Strikes of coal miners protesting the lack of a working contract spread in Pennsylvania and broke out in Ohio and Kentucky today, leaving more than 6,000 men idle and 14 mines closed.

Eleven pits were closed in United Mine workers district 2 (central Pennsylvania), which comprises 45,000 miners. Another pit which comprises 45,000 miners. A tenth pit had been closed, but its 900 employes voted to return to work and were doing so today.

Meanwhile the strikes spread to the Pittsburgh area in UMW district 5 with the closing of a mine employing 360.

The miners struck in protest against the war labor board's retention of their contract negotiations. The walkouts violated the union's agreement to continue working until May 31.

In Harlan county, Kentucky, three hundred miners at the Creech Coal Co. pit at Twila, quit work.

George Ward, secretary of the Harlan County Coal Operators' association, said the stoppage was attributed by the miners to dissatisfaction over the slowness of negotiations for a new wage contract.

Willow Grove Mine Closed at Neffs

By The Associated Press

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., May 20—Supt. Raymond Wilhelm reported today the big Willow Grove mine at Neffs had been closed by a work stoppage of United Mine Workers unionists protesting they had no new contract, and at Columbus a UMW spokesman said he feared miners in other pits might go out.

Neither the midnight nor 8 a. m. shifts reported for work, Wilhelm said, and a committee of mine workers informed him they could not work until a new contract was signed.

Adolph Pacifico, vice president of the UMB's district 6, said at Columbus "it has reached a stage where men are so disgusted that they will be pretty hard to be made to continue working. They are talking about going out in other mines."

Pacifico directs the UMW's af-

CONFESSION READ IN BUCYRUS TRIAL

Witnesses Testify Accused Soldier Gave It Voluntarily.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, May 20—Indication that the state might rest its second degree murder case against Pvt. Clore Bevard, 33, of Canton, Ill., at noon today was made this morning by Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon as the trial entered its third day in common pleas court here.

Bevard is charged with murdering Mrs. Wilma Reed, 29, also of Canton, Ill., in a northside apartment which the two shared. The murder took place the night on March 22 and for four days Bevard evaded both civilian and military officers by hiding out in a barn on farm three and a half miles east of Bucyrus.

During the afternoon session yesterday and again this morning the state has attempted to show that a confession made by Bevard following his apprehension on March 26 was made voluntarily and without threat or force.

LT. COL. ANDREW L. FABENS

Now directing all construction work in the Marion area for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers is Lt. Col. Andrew L. Fabens, who arrived this week at the Scioto Ordnance Plant to take over new duties as area engineer.

His transfer to Marion was announced in connection with preparations to convert part of the facilities of the ordnance plant from some kinds of fuzes to other types of ammunition, involving some remodeling and new construction work which Col. Fabens will direct.

He has been with the corps of engineers since April 30, 1941, last serving at the West Virginia Ordnance Works where he had been for five months before coming to Marion. He and Mrs. Fabens are living at Hotel Harding.

FEAR LEVEES WILL LET GO

Mississippi River Dikes from St. Louis to Cape Girardeau, Mo., Threatened.

By The Associated Press

Belief that all levees along the Mississippi river between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau, Mo., "will be wiped out" was expressed by a federal engineer today as emergency relief crews and military troops worked to check the flood waters from turbulent rivers and streams which covered a wide area of the midwest.

Vern Alexander, regional hydrologic engineer at Kansas City's weather bureau, after completing a tour of the Missouri and Oklahoma flood areas, "said: "I believe all levees along the Mississippi river between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau will be wiped out." The levees protect thousands of acres of rich farm lands.

High Crest at St. Louis

Alexander predicted the levees at St. Louis and East St. Louis, Ill., would hold, although he said he believed the crest at St. Louis would reach 37½ feet by Saturday or Sunday. The St. Louis weather bureau said the stage yesterday was 32.9 feet, a rise of 2.7 feet in the last 24 hours, and predicted a rise of 2 feet in the next 24 hours. The all-time peak at St. Louis was 41.2 feet in 1844, Alexander said.

There was only slight measure of relief in the flooded area in a six-state mid-continent section where water has driven thousands from their homes, covered millions of acres of farm lands, disrupted rail and motor traffic, and halted work in many war plants and factories.

Lewis' Bid To Return UMW To AFL Fold Is Welcomed

All but Few Insiders Stunned by Sudden Move; Motive Behind Action Is Sought.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20—John L. Lewis' return to the doorstep of the American Federation of Labor stunned all but a few insiders in labor circles today and left them groping for an explanation.

The unpredictable president of the United Mine Workers, who defied the AFL in 1935 and was suspended for organizing the rival CIO, formally petitioned in behalf of the miners for readmission. An AFL statement yesterday said the application was "welcomed" and was being considered in "an orderly and sympathetic way."

Lewis withheld comment at his New York hotel but his friends said his action was evidence of his desire for a unified labor movement. Critics doubted if that told the whole story. Many believe he made the jump because he had no other place to go, while still seeking the top spot in the American labor movement.

When Lewis lost control of the CIO and left it last year he virtually burned his bridges behind him. He tried a third movement under the banner of district 50, a catch-all unit of the UMW. The results were less than spectacular.

As the leader of a single union, the United Mine Workers, his influence in politics has its limitations. By rejoining a federation of unions whose membership soon may aggregate 7,000,000, he could be seeking a potent alliance in political councils, perhaps starting with the 1944 presidential campaigns.

William L. Hutcheson, president of the AFL Brotherhood of Carpenters, is regarded as Lewis' chief ally and sponsor of his return to the federation. Like Lewis, Hutcheson is a Republican.

In an interview last night, the president of the carpenters said Lewis' application was "evidence of his sincerity for a unified labor movement."

Hutcheson said that in the current soft coal wage dispute, "too much blame is being placed on Lewis. He is representing the men who dig the coal, and from what I can learn, he is only carrying out their desires."

Lewis' latest move, however, was not believed to bear any immediate relation to the current soft coal wage dispute.

It was Hutcheson whom Lewis punched at an AFL convention eight years ago. But that wound has long since healed.

What effect the miners' reaffiliation with the AFL would have upon the CIO is speculative. The respective membership claims make the CIO numerically inferior now. The miners, who have been independent since last October, would add 500,000 to 600,000 to the 6,225,000 members who now pay per capita tax to the AFL.

The aggregate membership of the CIO unions is believed to be less than 5,000,000. It has never made public its treasury figures.

At least two impediments must be negotiated before Lewis' return to the AFL. Some of the UMW's District 50 membership infringes upon the jurisdiction of AFL craft unions, and agreeable jurisdictional lines would have to be drawn. Also, leaders of the AFL Progressive Miners once were bitter foes of Lewis. AFL policies would not permit two unions of mine workers within the federation.

There has been talk of William Green's retirement as AFL president for several years, and he could be the first casualty if Lewis returns to a place at the AFL council table.

73 AXIS PLANES ARE DESTROYED

Allied Air Force Makes Heaviest Attack on Italy Since Fall of Tunisia.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 20—Allied fighters and bombers, in mighty smashes at axis air power, destroyed 73 planes yesterday in the greatest aerial blow they have inflicted since the collapse of the German ground forces in North Africa, it was announced today.

Twenty-nine planes were shot down in fierce dog fights off Sicily and Sardinia in an area where the German and Italian air forces have concentrated hundreds of aircraft in an attempt to stem the great and continuing allied onslaught and at least 44 other were destroyed on the ground.

For the first time since the fall of Tunisia enemy aircraft rose in large numbers to challenge allied domination of the skies over Sardinia and Sicily and their squadrons were ripped to pieces in what official sources described as "several long and gruelling dog fights."

Fifty axis fighters jumped United States Flying Fortresses, which bombed the Milo air field near Trapani, Sicily, and more than 30 fighters attacked United States Marauders and Warhawks when the Americans bombed Monserrato, Elmas air field and the harbor of Cagliari, in southern Sardinia.

Four American planes were lost in all these operations.

Describing the Fortress attack and the enemy fighter reaction, Sergt. A. W. Faurot of St. Marys, Ohio, radio operator, commented: "The fighters really gave us a battle. They would swish up and attack from all angles and positions."

But, he added, "it didn't make any difference on the bombing run."

Flying Fortresses covered the Milo air field in Sicily with bomb bursts and started fires, the communique said.

Fighter-escorted medium bombers attacked four air fields in Sardinia and were credited with numerous hits on airdrome buildings and among "large numbers of aircraft on the ground."

(The Italian high command communique said axis planes torpedoed and probably sank two medium-sized allied steamers off the Algerian coast and heavily damaged a third vessel of 10,000 tons.

(The Italian bulletin said the ports of Sfax, Tunisia, and Oran, Algeria, were "effectively attacked by axis bombers.")

School Pupils Go Over Quota; Rural Communities Active in Campaign.

Marion county's bomber drive appeared to be making satisfactory progress today, but leaders still issued an appeal for additional sales to assure the campaign of success.

Sales yesterday amounted to $15,112.50, slightly above the $12,000-a-day rate that Chairman Carl E. Danner said would have to be maintained for the rest of the month to bring success.

This brought total sales to date up to $234,787.50 or 72 per cent of the $325,000 goal needed by May 29. Leaders pointed out again that the drive will close on the night of May 29 because the last two days of the month will be a combination of Sunday and a holiday. With few exceptions such as the Palace theater, no bond issuing agency will be open on those two days.

Rural communities of Marion county have contributed substantially to the figures already reported, a checkup today showed. The rural phase is expected to receive a good boost tonight at a communitywide bond rally in the Morral school with the Marion Steam Shovel Chorus presenting a musical program and two Granges helping to swell the attendance. The Morral Community has centered its bomber drive activities around the rally tonight.

Some of the communities in the county have made only partial reports so far, but this is how the score stood this morning: Caledonia, $5,975; Prospect, $4,128; LaRue, $1,387.50; Waldo, $3,722. Green Camp is centering its activities around an auction Sunday afternoon, and LaRue is building its drive around a rally next week.

RAF MOSQUITO BOMBERS RAID NAZI CAPITAL

Planes Make Third Attack on Berlin in Week; U. S. Blasts Ship Yards.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 20—Far-ranging and speedy mosquito bombers of the royal air force carried the continuing allied air offensive to Berlin itself again last night, the British announced today.

The RAF raid on Berlin constituted the third attack on the capital of the reich within a week and came only a few hours after American Flying Fortresses had smashed into Germany to blast submarine and shipbuilding yards at Kiel and Flensburg.

Last night's attack on Berlin had the character of repayment in kind for the series of German air force attacks on the London area. It apparently was the same sort of raid—a swift brief stab by high-flying fast planes. All the bombers returned.

Berlin has not had a cascade raid from heavy bombers since March 29.

Taking up where night raiders left off, large formations of allied planes swarmed over the channel by daylight today in the direction of northern France.

Nazis Driven Off

German planes, meanwhile, approached a south coast town but were driven out to sea by an anti-aircraft barrage before they were able to drop their bombs.

In night operations extending along the coast of Europe from the Netherlands to southern France, RAF Whirlwind bombers attacked enemy air bases at Poix, Amiens-Glisy and Crecy En Ponthieu and raided rail targets at Gamaches and Eu.

Speedy mosquitos strafed a concentration of barges in the Ghent area and shot up a Tangerbrugge factory, while Beaufighters set off a terrific explosion on five barges in the Lys river and shot up three trains near Poisy, Sens and Bonnieres.

The American Flying Fortress units, recently reinforced, touched off destructive and fast-spreading flames at Kiel and Flensburg in one of the greatest fire-bombing operations carried out by U. S. airmen.

Tens of thousands of incendiaries were showered over the two targets, and a headquarters announcement said both "were left in flames." Six bombers failed to return.

London Has Alert

Intruding German planes struck last night at southeast England, Essex and the London area, causing two brief alerts in the capital, but it was authoritatively reported that bombs dropped at widely separated points caused little dam-

Post-War Battle for the Skies

When the war ends, another kind of battle will enter its most intensive phase — a battle among the nations for supremacy in commercial aviation. Preliminary skirmishing has already started.

The meanings of this rivalry to people in the United States, and the effects of the growth of flying transportation on older methods of communication, are discussed in a series of three articles written for The Star by John L. Springer, Associated Press Features writer. The first appears today on Page 4.

School Physical Show Postponed

The physical education demonstration in which 350 Harding High school boys and girls were to appear and which was scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight has been postponed until Monday night at the same time.

The postponement was made by school officials this morning because of unfavorable weather conditions and the shape of the stadium field and track as a result of continued rains.

In case weather makes necessary postponement of the demonstration Monday night the program will be rescheduled for 8 p. m. Wednesday.

The program is under the joint direction of Miss Florence Coover and Victor Dorris, Harding High school physical education instructors.

72 BILLIONS ASKED FOR ARMY IN YEAR

Amount Increased by Expansion of Plane Program.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20 — President Roosevelt asked congress today to make available nearly $72,000,000,000 for the Army in the fiscal year starting July 1, boosting his January budget figures by more than $6,000,000,000.

White House Secretary Stephen Early explained that the increase is accounted for by a projected expansion of the aircraft program.

The Army expects to get, he said, 1,147,000,000 pounds of planes in the next year, exclusive of the weight of engines, and motors, compared with 911,000,000 pounds in the current fiscal period. The total, Early said, will exceed the combined production of all other nations.

A $29,000,000,000 naval bill is awaiting house passage today.

The President, in a letter to Speaker Rayburn, transmitted a request for war department appropriations totaling $59,425,586,500. He asked also that $12,472,813,200 of unobligated balances of current appropriations for the Army be made available again in the coming fiscal year. The total of the two items is $71,898,499,700.

A warning to cigaret vendors that they can not sell cigarets legally after Monday without a new license was sounded today by County Auditor Harry V. Mounts. He said only 33 new licenses have been issued as compared with 244 licenses issued last year.

President's Greeting Sent To Boy Scouts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 19—President Roosevelt sent to the 23rd annual national council meeting of Boy Scouts of America in New York today his personal message of encouragement as their honorary president.

"As we redouble our efforts to win the war," said Mr. Roosevelt's message to Walter W. Head, St. Louis, Mo., president of the Scout movement, "I am more impressed than ever by the services being rendered America by the Boy Scouts of yesterday on the battlefronts."

The Boy Scouts of today, Mr. Roosevelt added, are rendering similiar services on the home front. "They are indeed a source of power. Their record must be an inspiration to you."

REDS SMASH NAZI ATTACK

Reinforced Axis Troops Driven Back in Attempt To Cross Kuban River.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, May 20—New German counterattacks in the Kuban valley, fed by fresh reserves of men and tanks, have been smashed by Red army artillery and planes, the Russians announced today, with heavy losses inflicted on the Nazis as they made their second unsuccessful effort in two days to cross a river in the Kuban delta.

There was constant air and land action all along the Russian-German front from the Karelian isthmus north of Leningrad, where the Finns were reported to have manned their forward lines with more heavy guns, to the arc northeast of Novorossisk, where the Germans still held their positions in the Black sea port.

(There was no confirmation from Russian sources of claims voiced by the German radio that Russian troops had launched sharp attacks on German lines in the Staraya Russa sector near lake Ilmen, south of Volkhovo, and near Orel and Belgorod.

(The Tribune De Geneve, in Switzerland, also carried a Berlin dispatch quoting German military circles as saying the Russians were developing big troop movements in the Taman peninsula of the Caucasus, above Kursk and south of Leningrad.)

The fiercest fighting, the Russians said authoritatively, was in the Kuban and around Izyum, on the Donets river 70 miles southeast of Kharkov.

Fighters and bombers, with the Red air force holding superiority, continued major scale battles in the sky. The German air fleet made repeated efforts to raid Leningrad in attempts to halt the munitions factories that never have ceased turning out material

TOKYO GIVES ACCOUNT OF ISLAND FIGHT

Acknowledge That U. S. Ships and Planes Drive Them from Ridge Positions.

By The Associated Press

The Tokyo radio broadcast today a Domei news agency reporter's delayed account of the battle of Attu which acknowledged that U. S. planes and warships had blasted Japanese troops out of their ridge positions and killed more than two-thirds of one Japanese force.

The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press listening post in New York, also advanced unsubstantiated claims that heavy losses were inflicted on the Americans.

In Washington, Secretary Knox of the Navy said earlier this week American losses were lighter than had been expected.

The Japanese broadcast was beamed to the United States and Latin America and despite its seeming frankness in admitting severe Japanese losses it clearly was an attempt to raise misgivings in America. The Japanese assertions have not been borne out by any American sources. They are similar to many Japanese claims in the Pacific war which later have been exploded.

The American landings were made at Holtz and Massacre bays in the wake of heavy aerial bombardment, followed by thundering U. S. Navy barrages, the Japanese reporter was quoted as saying.

Fog Hampers Bombing

Fog clealed in to halt the air attacks for a while but the weather later cleared to allow the U. S. planes to come back and deal heavy punishment to the Japanese defenders, it was admitted.

The reporter claimed that on May 14 the small Japanese garrison continued to hold out.

He also asserted he saw a "tremendous explosion shake a warship"—an attacking ship which he said was either a battleship or cruiser—"and a huge tower of water shoot up several hundred feet into the air. Those of us who witnessed the scene thought the ship had either struck one of our automatic mines off shore or been attacked by a Japanese submarine."

The Japanese account, from the recorded broadcast, said American planes began an eight-hour bombardment at 2 a. m. May 12. At 10 a. m. American warships appeared outside Holtz bay in the heavy fog and opened fire, "releasing salvo after salvo in a wild effort which seemed to indicate the enemy was intent on blowing the island out to sea."

"Advance Japanese positions on shore returned the fire," the broadcast said, "and kept the American warships at a respectable distance, but during this heavy exchange a force of American troops managed to make a landing after Japanese mortar and machine gun fire had blasted away most of the landing barges that came into Holtz bay.

"Another large force of enemy warships appeared off Massacre bay later and opened up a heavy barrage."

Landing Parties Driven Off

The Japanese said that under cover of this fire "27 and possibly 28 large landing craft drove into the bay" but that concentrated fire from shore defenses drove them back.

The Japanese reporter asserted 10 of the boats were blasted out

Americans Seize Partially Completed Japanese Airbase in Battle of Attu

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20 — Army troops on Attu islands in the Aleutians are making satisfactory progress in the face of difficult conditions, Secretary of War Stimson reported today, and already Japanese were building in the Holtz bay region, have in their possession the partially completed airbase which the Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Landrum, described by the secretary as "a veteran of former Aleutian operations," commands the troops at Attu. The expedition was planned some time ago, Stimson told a press conference, and the soldiers were specially trained for the job. They proceeded to Attu with heavy naval escort and under cover of a dense fog to surprise the Japanese completely.

Under cover of a naval bombardment, the secretary added, a small party of army scouts made the first landing near the west arm of Holtz bay, and these were followed closely by another wave of troops in the same area. Later, another landing was made on the opposite side of the island at Massacre bay.

Stimson said the troops in the Holtz bay area were commanded by Col. Frank L. Culin Jr., but he did not have the name of the officer leading the assault on the southern side of the island.

There was little opposition from the surprised enemy in the first phase of the Attu operation, Stimson reported, and the troops had little difficulty in establishing strong beachheads which they later were to hold against Japanese counterattacks.

Although the dense fog which concealed the initial landings hampered subsequent operations, making air support almost impossible and the selection of targets for naval and other artillery extremely difficult, the soldiers slowly pushed the Japs inland. Enemy resistance stiffened along the high ridge at the center of the island, and numerous machine gun nests were encountered, he

Publishers Warned To Reduce Use of Paper

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20 — Newspaper publishers yesterday were warned to bring on diversion of newsprint into pulpwood production and to check the decline of stock on hand in the current bulletin of the American Newspaper Publishers association.

A two per cent increase in consumption during April was reported by the ANPA, which said "the situation would not be so serious if newsprint was being manufactured with stocks growing at the mills, but a casual review of all recent statistics shows that mill stocks generally have been going down, and the same thing has been happening with the stocks in the hands of publishers."

HOW THE WORLD HAS GOTTEN SMALL . . . AND WILL GET SMALLER.

(First of a series of three articles)

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
Associated Press Features Writer.

NEW YORK—One of the great air battles of World War II will reach full fury after the Armistice.

The battle is for supremacy over the peace-time air routes of the world. It will be fought with air transports—including huge monsters of the skies now carrying men and munitions to warring fronts. It will be fought to some extent, probably, by every country with goods to send outside its borders.

Airmen say the war and aviation's normal development during these years of war—is speeding advances in air transport. They visualize the dawn of an air age when peace arrives—an age when men can step into an airplane here and step out within 60 hours in deepest Africa, innermost China, or any other spot on earth. They foresee the nation holding the major air routes also holding a large measure of trade supremacy.

American airlines, say these airmen, are more than ready to hold their own in this post-war struggle. But recent debate in the British parliament, warning of the "spreading tentacles" of U. S. transport power, and decisions of that government to speed civil aeronautical production, indicate the British are determined not to lose out.

100,000 Mile Service.

U. S. transports are now largely military, operated with civil airline personnel by the Army's Air Transport Command. Great cargo ships are streaming out, in untold numbers, to Britain, Africa, to outposts in the Atlantic and Pacific. In addition American commercial lines are giving regular service along 100,000 miles throughout the world.

To meet this competition the British Overseas Airways is flying what parliament members call creaky, outmoded ships over only a fraction of the territories covered by American lines. Debates in the house of commons have revealed that the British agreed to concentrate on fighting planes while the U. S. produced transports. Alarmed members saw Britain reduced to a second-rate trade nation in the flood of American transport production.

A speech in the house of lords by Viscount Cranborne, Lord Privy Seal, indicates the British are not content with that prospect. He warned that "if other nations insist upon cut-throat competition, we are quite ready to enter the fray against them." Soon after, he announced that the British government was working on a secret plan for civil aviation—a plan believed calling for immediate commencement of work on the design of civil aircraft of all types, and for the converting of military craft to transport uses.

Other countries now stifled by Hitler may make their entry in the post-war air transport struggle, too. Before the war Air France flew to 73 points on earth. The Royal Dutch Airlines served 13 points.

Germany and Italy operated or controlled 26,000 miles of airways within South America in 1939—lines which have now fallen into Pan-American hands.

'Air Freedom' Debated

Airmen say these nations may hold an ace card in their ownership of the air over their territories. By forbidding planes of other countries from flying over their land or stopping at their airports, they could restrain any nation's claim to air supremacy. A direct route from the U. S. to China lies over Russia. If the Soviets prohibited American planes from flying it, air transport would be hampered.

The "freedom of the air" principle has been hotly debated. Vice President Henry Wallace advocates it. Some Americans—like Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce—argue that with air freedom U. S. airlines would fall before the cheap labor countries of the world as U. S. merchant shipping fell in the pre-war years.

In both London and Washington, there is strong support for post-war cooperation on air trade—some arrangement, possibly—whereby nations would be alloted certain percentages of the international air transport business.

Airline spokesmen in the U. S. believe some kind of cooperation is necessary and inevitable. Before it comes, however, they foresee a fierce struggle for bargaining position.

FLOOD THREAT PASSES

UPPER SANDUSKY — Flood danger was apparently averted here as a lessening of the amount of rainfall in the past 24 hours allowed the brimming Sandusky river to recede slightly this morning.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swellings, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Pete Swanson fancies himself as an armchair strategist. Sometimes he gets so tangled up, I just can't resist tryin' to straighten him out.

For instance, the other day he was waxing indignant about our soldiers being allowed to buy beer right in camp. Said that was just coddling the troops and would ruin discipline.

I told him the actual facts had already been established by a study the Government made. Their report said chaplains and the military police agree that instead of ruining discipline, 3.2 beer sold in Army camps provides our soldiers with a mild form of relaxation without impairing their efficiency.

Well, Pete allowed that the chaplains and military police are a pretty good authority on what's right for soldiers. I've noticed lately he's been confining his remarks to the broader phases of strategy.

INSPECTION HELD AT YORK RITE REUNION

Conferring of Super Excellent Degree in Day's Program.

Two hundred and forty members and guests were present yesterday for the second day of the York Rite Reunion at the Masonic Temple.

This was the occasion of the annual inspection of Marion Council No. 22, Royal and Select Masters, and conferring of the super excellent masters degree, the most beautiful and impressive of all York Rite degrees. It is conferred but once each year.

During the afternoon the royal and select masters degrees were conferred by officers of Marion Council. Ralph E. Carhart, master of the Council, presided for conferring of the royal masters degree, and the deputy master, Stuart E. Jones, presided for the select masters degree.

At 5:15 a Lodge of Sorrow was opened by officers of the Council. For opening of the lodge the officers used an original ritualistic service written by Mr. Carhart. During the service David R. Jones of Prospect sang a solo, following which Harvey T. Gracely gave the Eulogy for the deceased members of Marion Council.

At 6:30 dinner was served by the women of Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of Eastern Star.

The council of super excellent masters was opened at 8 o'clock by officers of the council, at which time Mr. Gracely presented the following guests: Judge Horace H. Nye of Elyria, grand master of the Grand Council, Dr. Ewing V. Burns of Findlay, a past grand master, Paul E. Reed of Columbus, grand marshal and the inspecting officer; Ray R. Emmick of Lakewood, inspector of Seventh Arch and John Pace of Columbus, master of Columbus Council No. 8.

Honor Presentation

Following presentation of the guests, Mr. Carhart for and on behalf of the members of Marion Council presented the grand master an honorary membership in Marion Council.

The super excellent masters degree was then conferred on a class of 39 candidates by the cast of that degree. The cast included 80 some members of the council, the leading parts being taken by Mayor Russell C. Snare, who gave the historical lecture, David E. Montgomery, as Ezekiel the prophet; Ralph E. Carhart, as Gedeliah, governor of Judah; Lewie F. Baller, as Zedeklah, King of Judah, Walter S. Guthrie, as Pashur, Prince of Judah, Jay H. Vaughan, Zephaniah, priest and ruler of the temple, Robert F. Williams, as Jeremiah, a priest and prophet; Russell M. Wilhelm, as Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon and Arthur A. Ward as Nebuzarradan, captain of the guard.

Mr. Reed in his inspection report complimented the officers and cast on the manner in which the work was conferred. He gave the council a grade of 100 per cent in his inspection report, which report is not only for the conferring of the degree but covers activities of the council throughout the year. He said this concluded his inspections of the council in his Arch and that this was only the second council in the entire Arch that had received such a high grade. Other councils of his Arch are Newark, Columbus, London, New Lexington, Mt. Vernon, Delaware, Lancaster, Marysville and Westerville. Last year Marion Council was one of three councils in the state to receive the grade of 100 per cent.

Talks Given

Talks were given by Judge Nye, Mr. Emmick, Mr. Gracely, Dr. Burns, and Robert T. Mason, who had been elected as orator by the class of candidates.

Of the 24 living past masters of Marion Council there were 17 present for the meeting.

During the afternoon and evening wives of the guests and the council officers were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Carhart. They were also guests of the council for the dinner.

Today beginning at 1 p. m., the Orders of Knighthood will be conferred on a class of candidates.

The Order of Red Cross will be conferred by George O. Lockwood, the Order of Malta by Ralph B. Williamson, and the Order of Temple will be conferred by the commander, Mr. Lockwood, and Robert F. Williams, acting as prelate.

Among the guests expected this afternoon are Robert W. Taylor of Columbus grand sword bearer of the Grand Commandery, and secretary of Scioto Consistory Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the Valley of Columbus.

A dinner will be served at 6:30 by the wives of the officers of the commandery.

CAPT. DAVID ANDERSON, All-American fullback in 1938, practises firing a machine gun at the Anti-Aircraft Artillery School, Camp Davis, N. C. Playing a full 60 minutes, Anderson helped the University of California defeat Alabama in the Rose Bowl game of 1938.

Registration Opens for Care of Children

Special to The Star

GALION, May 19—Parents are urged to register here this week the school age children of employed mothers for the extended school service program for child care during the summer months.

Registration is to be made at the elementary school in which the child regularly attends school, it has been announced by M. A. Pevenmire, superintendent of schools.

Final arrangements to start the program will be made when registration is completed this week in order that the program can set set up by June 1.

The first center to be established for this program will be at the East school since that building is already furnishing noon lunches for the nursery school now in operation at that building. Centers in other buildings for the care of school-age children of working mothers, will be started as the need develops.

The centers will operate from 6:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., until there is need for longer hours. A nominal fee of 15 cents per day is charged for the extended school service, and meals served at the rate of 15 cents for dinner.

VITAMINS

ARE YOUR FIRST LINE OF HEALTH DEFENSE

According to government authorities, 3 out of 4 people today are under par—nervous, underweight or easily fatigued. Even well-fed people suffer—because of a vitamin deficiency in their diet. Now—more than ever before—you owe it to yourself and your nation to maintain your physical and mental alertness. Vitamin products are the answer—supplementing the foods you eat to supply your daily requirements of every vitamin.

Naval Victory in Tunisia

LITTLE has been said and little will be said officially about the naval victory in Tunisia, yet it will do more to speed the winning of the war than any other effect of the successful campaign there.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, who do much of their war thinking in terms of naval strategy, and Adolf Hitler, who is depending on submarine warfare to forestall invasion, know what relatively safe access to Mediterranean shipping points means. It will be possible as soon as the Mediterranean straits between Tunisia and Sicily are controlled from the air. Safe passage equivalent of adding at least 100 ships to the Allied navy, a blow from which the German submarine campaign will not recover. Lord Halifax, British ambassador to this country, admitted more than a year ago that 300 ships were being used continuously to supply armies in the Middle East. Secretary of the Navy Knox called attention only a few days ago to the shortening of the supply route for Allied shipping to the Arabian gulf by 5,000 miles because of access via the Mediterranean. Not only the war in Europe, but the war in Russia and the war in the Far East were altered in Allied favor when the Axis lost control of the Mediterranean narrows; control of the Sicilian side becomes only a matter of time, the outcome already made certain by mass bombing raids on Sicilian ports.

Pruning the Aleutian Japs

MILITARY officials undoubtedly have shared the conviction of the civilian population that the continued presence and expansion of Japanese forces in the Aleutians constituted a menace to continental safety. Apparently, the time now has come, in their judgment, to prune the Aleutian Japs from the main stalk of Japanese aggression.

An attack on the Aleutian bases is the counterpart of the attack at the other extremity of Japan's island battlefront, in the South Pacific. In many respects, it is the same kind of a problem. The Japanese have the advantage of position. Our troops have the disadvantage of assault under extremely difficult conditions.

But there is another similarity, not so gloomy. As developed by the Japanese at great cost and trouble, the Aleutian bases can be used to great advantage, once captured. The airplane landing strips would be as useful for further blows as Henderson field on the island of Gundalcanal. Whatever the price, there would be at least the satisfaction of knowing that the net loss would be Japan's. It would have been bled heavily at the extremity of one more tentacle thrust outward from the brain center at Tokyo.

Politicalitis in the Treasury

IN ITS handling of the critical problem of wartime taxation, the Roosevelt administration and congress have been crippled by politicalitis. The handicap is serious and will become more serious as time passes. The time spent arguing about the Ruml plan should have been turned to better use.

The United States cannot afford to spend five more months talking about the 16 billion dollars' worth of additional taxes the treasury says must be imposed this year; it could not afford to spend five months talking about anything in wartime.

If taxation had been put into the hands of revenue experts, instead of being turned over to social reformers determined to carry out their plans without interference from the war, most of the bogus issues raised and argued would have been eliminated. The confusion has been over questions of sociology, not finance.

The country is kept from securing its financial safety by interference from politicians, both elected and appointed, who are trying to use taxation to bring about social reform: i.e., to destroy one class, to weaken another class, to strengthen another class and so on.

In wartime, there is one necessity in taxation—to get the largest amount of money possible with the least trouble. If that rule were followed, if the paralyzing influence of politicalitis could be overcome, most of the questions being bickered over now would answer themselves. As it is, the United States treasury will be lucky if it doesn't lose its part of World war II to the social fixers who have Trojan-horsed it into a state of confusion.

Price Policing

PUBLICATION of dollars and cents maximum prices amounts to a transfer of primary responsibility for price policing from a relatively small group of OPA officials to the entire public.

This carries with it a public obligation to assist in price stabilization by refusing to pay irregular prices and reporting them to the price panels of ration boards.

Price stabilization, in other words, is an experiment in cooperation for the purpose of holding down the cost of living. It also is an experiment in good faith for all citizens who are tempted to get what they want, regardless of ceiling prices. If it fails, the blame cannot all be shifted automatically to a remote bureaucracy in Washington. Part of the blame will rest where it belongs—on consumers who shared responsibility for price policing.

News Behind the News

American Fliers in the Ranks Suggested Strategy Calling for Attack on Attu.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 20—American army and navy officers of rather low rank counseled the strategy for taking Attu first and then going back to get Kiska.

The high command here is understood to have asked fliers on the ground in Alaska for suggestions on strategy and their recommendations were followed. This is how a democratic army functions in contrast to Hitler and other totalitarian military regimes.

The importance of the islands as bases for invasion upon the Japanese mainland may be slightly over-estimated in the public mind. They are good submarine bases, but, due to weather conditions, are not satisfactory air bases.

The Japs have been building fields on both Kiska and Attu, however, and the one on Attu is large enough for bombers. They could not have been used to attack the United States, being too far away, but would have launched bombings of Alaska.

OPA Price Jumble

They are doing a lot of things to prices here, but no one seems to know just what, and somehow, no matter what they do—threaten, point-ration, freeze, or promise—every time you go to a store with a market basket, food seems to cost a little bit more.

A flood of publicity about the new dollar and cents ceilings, roll backs, subsidies, and mandatory margins, has created the impression that the cost of eating has declined, but the evidence to sustain such a conclusion is still lacking to consumers.

The experts are as confused as everyone. For instance, OPA first fixed margins of profits on various foods on chain stores, some of which were mandatory and others optional. Then they made all margins mandatory on the old basis of March, 1942, but raised some margins. That was on Monday. Two days later, on Wednesday, margin reductions were ordered.

The statisticians of the chains figure the reductions will cut them to such an extent in meats, canned fruits and vegetables, cereal, rice, and sugar as to make their business unprofitable. Yet somehow nothing you buy seems to be any cheaper. However, OPA promised another meat rollback decrease June 1, based on subsidies which the government will pay out of the treasury to the meat packers.

Little Help for Public

A cursory check of the effect of the 300 food ceilings ordered by OPA 10 days ago, indicates these did not roll back anything. Some prices were increased, some decreased, and the average left about the same. Enforcement may be improved by the action, but not prices.

The particular brands of canned goods hit by decreases seem to be those used in the chains, and this should help the independents, but the aid received by the consumer is not yet apparent.

The only thing sure is that no scientific effort to handle the price situation is evident. Rather it is piece-meal plugging.

The confusing things which have been done are expected by mort private economists to be merely temporary stop-gaps at best. In the long run, they think food prices are likely to continue to work themselves upward one way or another.

Also obvious is the fact that food buying through normal retail channels has fallen off enormously.

Effect on Chains

In the chains beef consumption this April was off 70 per cent from last April; processed foods, 50 per cent; meat, 60 per cent; butter and cheese, 56 per cent; sugar, 25 per cent; coffee, 33 per cent. Much of this reflects curtailment due to point rationing, but some of it is also due to black markets in meat, poultry, and potatoes, and the transfer of business to smaller stores.

The point rationing system seems much too complex for the average housewife, and buying is not being done on an efficient basis, in the opinion of all authorities. The government has made buying and living too complicated for average intelligence.

No one, in or out of the government, seems satisfied with the condition, but it looks like we will have to go on with OPA, order by order, mistake by mistake, correction by correction, until some semblance of efficiency evolves out of the chaos through the leveling process of time.

Home Front Supply Boss

Gets Important Assignment from Donald Nelson.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, May 20—From a tiny room in the War Production Board's mammoth building, an amiable little white-haired man of 60 quietly supervises the flow of a multitude of products to the folks at home.

Arthur D. Whiteside, newly-appointed director of civilian supplies, winces at being called a "czar," but WPB Chairman Donald Nelson has given him sweeping powers to see that essential articles and services are made available, within war-waging limitations, to consumers.

He recommends to WPB what raw materials, manufactured articles and repair facilities should be allotted for civilian needs. All consumer goods and services, except food, housing and transportation, are under his direction.

He has to keep posted on the requirements and supplies of countless products ranging from castor oil, corsets and coffins to washing machines and furnaces. He will recommend what goods and how much of them ought to be rationed.

Knows Business

Whiteside, long-time president of the business reporting firm of Dun and Bradstreet, is rated a big-league business analyst but in appearance and manner he is as unpretentious as a village druggist. Incidentally, he points out that small town and rural storekeepers and their customers have been hardest hit by an uneven distribution of consumer products.

"This job will be a headache for the first few months," he said. "But after that we hope to get merchandise flowing in various channels on a more equitable distribution basis. It is largely a matter of making adjustments in distribution, with a view particularly to helping isolated areas."

ARTHUR D. WHITESIDE

Previous Service

Mr. Whiteside is a veteran government handy-man. Back in World war I, he worked with Bernard Baruch on the War Industries Board. He was only 36 when he went to London and Paris with the American delegation to the Peace Conference.

He was one of the four division administrators of NRA and served as chief of the Iron and Steel Branch of the Materials Division of OPM, forerunner of WPB.

He is a fresh-water fishing enthusiast and loves to pull in striped-bass from Vermont lakes. A summer in humid, over-crowded Washington will be no treat for this man who likes the woods and waters and a small town's informal comforts.

Just What Is Music?

No One Knows, but We Know What It Does.

(From Imperial Magazine)

FRED B. BARTON in his book, "Music As a Hobby," offers some advice to people who are taken to hear "good" music.

"If you can't relax during a concert or an opera," he writes, "start consciously to do the things that will make you comfortable during the performance. Eat lightly, so you won't feel distressed or logy. Take a sedative, if necessary. Carry a small book, and sneak a few pages during the dull passages, of which presumably there will be some. Carry a pad and pencil too and take notes of a speech you intend some day to make, or the plot of the great American novel you want sometime to write, or a sales plan for doubling your company's output."

We never cease to wonder why it is that so many otherwise intelligent and cultured people are unable to enjoy the highest type of music. They don't and there's no use pretending that they do or what they can learn.

We have a friend who describes the condition of many in attendance at symphony concerts as one of "drowsy reverie."

BARTON says that music is so potent that certain vibrations will shatter a drinking glass and soft boil an egg. Dr. Edmund Podolsky, he states, believes that some day music can do such things as dissolve gallstones and kidney stones.

The foreword of Barton's excellent book is a quotation from Lucien Price, editorial writer for the Boston Globe. It is the best description of music I have ever read, and here it is:

"No one knows what music is. It is performed, listened to, composed and talked about; but its essential reality is as little understood as that of its first cousin, electricity. We know that it detaches the understanding, enabling thoughts to turn inward upon themselves and clarify; we know that it releases the human spirit into some solitude of meditation where the creative process can freely act; we know that it can soothe pain, relieve anxiety, comfort distress, exhilarate health, confirm courage, inspire clear and bold thinking, ennoble the will, refine taste, uplift the heart, stimulate intellect, and do many another interesting and beautiful things. And yet, when all is said and done, no one knows what music is. Perhaps the explanation is that music is the very stuff of creation itself."

Today and Tomorrow

Delays in Tax Program Seen As Making Problem More Difficult.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

NOT much more time ought to be spent arguing about how much taxes are to be abated. The question is eminently one that can be compromised and adjusted.

The continuing agitation about the abatement of taxes is softening up the taxpayers, is obstructing the establishment of an efficient system of tax collection, and is postponing and making more difficult the levying of the new taxes and the compulsory savings which are imperative if the inflation is to be controlled.

The dispute about how to collect taxes should be settled quickly so that we may address ourselves to the question of collecting more taxes and of impounding excess inflationary money.

Advocates of the Ruml plan have performed a useful service in making it plain that in order to make the taxpayers current there must be some relief from the need to pay two years' taxes in one year. They have, it now appears, educated the treasury on this point. But their enthusiasm has carried them too far.

Privilege for Some?

By arguing that nothing will do except the total cancellation of the 1942 tax liability they have fallen into a dilemma; either they are conferring a very special benefit on one group of taxpayers, or they are misleading this group of taxpayers into thinking that they are going to have a special benefit.

The taxpayers involved are the salaried and professional men who are earning net incomes over $25,000 a year. Under the present laws these men, assuming them to be self-made and without inherited wealth, find it very difficult to retire and live at their accustomed standard on the income from their savings. For in the year after they cease to earn, they owe the government anywhere from one-third to two-thirds of a year's earnings. The Ruml plan enables them to retire without making this payment.

A very strong case can be made for the Ruml plan as a measure of social reform. Under the prewar tax laws the most successful self-made men (as measured by earnings), business executives, lawyers, doctors, engineers, inventors, artists, were under a severe handicap. In the few years out of their active lives in which they were able to earn large incomes, it was made increasingly difficult for them, as tax rates were raised, to accumulate money for their old age. Those who had inherited wealth and those who had acquired it before the tax rates became sever, were in a far better position. Yet, by and large it is true that the dynamic initiative of our social order resides in the salaried and professional men, who, because of character and of special gifts and unusually hard work, command for a time large salaries or fees. In a capitalistic democracy they ought to be encouraged, and the ability to save enough out of a short period of large earnings in order to retire comfortable is undoubtedly a potent incentive to them.

Because it is war time, it is almost certainly impossible to carry out this otherwise desirable social reform. For if the senate's version of the Ruml plan were adopted, can it be denied that in the next tax bill the rates would have to be raised very considerably on incomes over $15,000? Is is conceivable that taxes can be raised drastically against the millions of new taxpayers with their lower income in the same year when the men who have large earnings obtain relief amounting to anywhere from one-third to two-thirds of a year's taxes?

It is not conceivable and many of the advocates of the Ruml plan have recognized the fact by saying that once congress had made the old taxpayers current, some portion of the forgive taxes can be recovered by raising the rates. Their argument has been that the orderly procedure is first to make every one current, and then to raise tax rates.

They have been right in principle. But have the taxpayers understood that the principle is theoretical and academic; that out of what is forgiven by adopting the Ruml plan, a substantial portion will still be taxed out of them anyway? I fear that they have not understood this, and that the heat would go out of the dispute if they did.

Words of the Wise

Hope is the best part of our riches. What sufficeth it that we have the wealth of the Indies in our pockets, if we have not the hope of heaven in our souls?—(Bovee).

When men put their trust in God and in knowledge, the government of the majority is, in the end, the government of the wise and good.—(Spaulding).

Take away ambition and vanity, and where will be your heroes and patriots?—(Seneca).

They're Off Again

Hecklers of Civilian Wales Pests in World War I, Again Passing Out Slurring Remarks.

By DAMON RUNYON

"WHY ain't you in uniform?" demanded a truculent young dame of a deferred guy the other night.

"Why ain't you?" he replied, tartly.

Which brings me to a situation of the moment that is highly reminiscent of the days of World war I in this country when it got so a guy not in uniform was subject to public and private criticism on all sides, with no one bothering to hear his excuses.

The gals were his severest critics then just as they are now, and he could not make the comeback I have quoted above. The service was not crying for the ladies as it is today. Shortage in enlistments in the various women's auxiliaries is producing talk of drafting the gals.

Hence a female of military age and qualifications not in uniform herself is heaving stones through her glass house when she bawls out a bloke for not being vested in the masculine sartorial fashion of the day. But judging from reports that reach my ears many of the fair ones are disregarding any possible inconsistencies in their criticism and making life uncomfortable for the civilian young men.

I do not think they have reached the stage of handing out or mailing white feathers as an idea which some of them borrowed from England in the last war, but I am told they have worked up a fine line of verbal sarcasm that bartenders complain is disturbing their social trade. It seems that with a couple of drinks under their rayon girdles these girls can make a dram seem mighty tasteless to a civilian target for their comment.

THE first impulse of the victim of such a heckling, especially one who has reason to feel that it is undeserved, is to start beating. But of course no gentleman can belt a lady, at least not without first kissing her hand, so the heckler's best out is to go to Lamsville, meaning to fade away swiftly.

One of my friends who was rejected because of a hernia tried to win a heckling lady over by a sympathetic plea, quietly explaining to her the reason for his rejection, but as a test of his veracity she suddenly jolted him where she thought a hernia ought to be, only it was not in that place at all, but opposite, and as a consequence of her blow he developed another hernia and is now in the doubles department.

This heckling may strike you as a harmless diversion for the ladies, but I regret to say that men in uniform are also taking it up, usually without first cross-examining the subjects and ascertaining their classification and the reasons therefore. I do not blame the men in the service for being irked at the sight of fellows obviously of military age and apparently hale and hearty walking around in civvies, but the boys should first be sure of their ground before making a case of an individual.

A SOMEWHAT embarrassing incident came up on the west coast not long ago when some service fellows varnished a couple of civilians who turned out to be a discharged marine of this war and a seaman of the merchant marine on furlough.

I think with Myer Pozen, a discharged serviceman of Los Angeles, that the government should give discharged soldiers and sailors some insignia that would disclose to the public the fact of their service and make it a felony for anyone not entitled to the insignia to display it.

By the way, I note that a number of the famous heckler squelches of World war I have been revived for this one, including the one about the discharged veteran in civilian clothes dropping his glass eye in the palm of a lady who wanted to know why he was not in uniform. Also, the one about the chap who, under similar circumstances, pulled up his trousers to disclose two wooden legs. I suppose the same stories jump from war to war.

So They Say—

We are not fighting with Russia, Great Britain and China because we love them. We respect them, but we are fighting for our own self-preservation.—Navy Secretary Frank Knox.

What are you laughing at us for? We're going to New York. You're going to Italy!—Italian prisoners to wisecracking American captors in Tunisia.

When we have settled with enemy number one, we will go to the aid of the gallant Anzacs and Americans in the east and purge the world there also of human rattlesnakes which have brought so much misery to mankind.—British Undersecretary of War Lord Croft.

I think there is a very definite job to be done in every community to combat this growing delinquency on the part of young men and women.—FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover.

We've got to go out and win this war and get started on it as soon as possible.—Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers in London.

Ray-shuhn or Rash-uhn?

With all the talk about rationing, it is inevitable that people who say ray-shuhn should be irritated by hearing others say rash-unn, and vice versa. The note under "ration" in "Words: Recommended Pronunciations," by W. Cabell Greet, offers comfort to both sides.

The ray-shuhn group are following the tendency of speakers of New England and the northeastern section of the country. The rash-unn crowd are in a goodly company, which includes President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization; Leon Henderson, Elmer Davis and Eddie Rickenbacker. In fact, if you use rash-unn, you are going along with probably nine out of 10 Americans in all walks of life, as well as with the British (whose dictionaries are inclined to ignore ray-shuhn); but if you prefer ray-shuhn, we can't call you wrong. It seems to be merely a matter of individual choice. Live and let live, we say.—"The Pleasures of Publishing."

Wartime Dogs

City officials never had more reason to worry about the perennial problem of dogs on the loose than they have now. Blackouts and victory gardens both are adding to the municipal headache.

American Municipal association, reporting the results of a survey in Oregon and Washington, says Seattle is one of the first American cities to adopt an ordinance for control of dogs during blackouts. Under Seattle's law dogs must be confined within doors or on leash from sundown to 7 a. m.

Another Washington city, Wenatchee, has now compromised with victory gardeners and dog freedom pleaders by adopting an ordinance which lets dogs run free part of the year and keeps them confined the rest of the year—from April 1 to Oct. 1, to be exact.

Hainan Island, off South China, has a population of three million persons.

The concertuna was invented by an Englishman in 1829.

In Marion to handle the advance publicity is R. E. Dean, a resident of Milford Center in Union county. Before joining the Wallace Brothers the press work Mr. Dean handled advance publicity for Cole Brothers circus.

SEN. TAFT CRITICIZES POST WAR PROGRAM

Ohioan Sees Drift Toward Socialist Economy.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—The post-war program of the national resources planning board "leads directly to the abolition of local self government," asserts Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

It also leads "to control of all industry by administrative boards having executive, legislative and judicial powers and to a 50 per cent, at least, Socialist economy," the Cincinnati Republican declared in an address at the 54th annual congress of the national society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

"The board gives lip service to private enterprise," Taft continued, "but the measures which they propose would certainly bring it to an untimely end. * * *

"The railroads are apparently to be taken over by a national transportation agency which shall also control the bus lines, air transport and pipe lines. The whole effect on the report on transportation is government ownership.

"It is suggested also that there be mixed corporations extended to manufacture aluminum, magnesium, synthetic rubber, chemicals, ship building and aircraft. I think I need hardly point out that once the government enters an industry the days of private enterprise are over."

Taft advocated "sound finance," encouragement of new industry, minimum regulation of business, a tax plan to encourage saving and investment, and continuance of safeguards for economic security, health and public welfare.

Jobless Compensation Hits New Low in April

Wheat, Oats and Rye Making Fair Progress

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 20 — Wheat, oats and rye are making fairly good progress in most sections of the producing belt, the weather bureau summary of crop conditions said today, but corn planting is considerably behind schedule because of wet weather.

The bureau said conditions in Ohio were: acreage of oats seriously reduced by too much rain. Corn planting is almost at a standstill. Condition of winter wheat is improved, but is still below normal. Some potatoes are rotting in the ground.

Indiana conditions: Much damage from flooding, but no estimate can be made yet. Winter wheat made fair to good progress. Practically all field work stopped.

NOTICE

To Our Patrons and Friends

At the instance of the war manpower committee of Marion and in a spirit of cooperation and service to the community, this bank gladly and willingly agreed to provide banking facilities for war workers on Friday evenings from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. for a trial period of four weeks commencing with April 23, 1943.

The trial period ended on May 14th and on the basis of statistics covering this operation as it pertained to our bank, the response to this extra hour service has been negligible and the management after careful thought and consideration feels that it has not accomplished the purpose for which it was intended and continuation is unwarranted. Therefore, effective immediately we are discontinuing the extra banking hours from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. on Friday evenings.

We regret the necessity of this action, but in view of the lack of response and the expense of this operation, as well as many other unprofitable services which banks are called upon to perform in the interest of the war effort, we must eliminate all unnecessary operations.

Hitler Frantically Prepares Defense of Fatherland Against Allied Invasion

By EDWIN SHANKE
AP Correspondent

STOCKHOLM, May 20 — With [illegible] tightening, Adolf Hitler [illegible] military advisers have [illegible] the Maginot line complex [illegible] they once scorned and [illegible] responsible for the fall [illegible]

[illegible] wall stretching [illegible] Norway to south[illegible] is termed by German [illegible]ers "the greatest defense [illegible] of all time," superior [illegible] and depth to the West [illegible] Hitler built opposite [illegible] Maginot line.

Hitler is virtually in constant [illegible] Prof. Albert Speer, [illegible]er of munitions, on the [illegible] construction still go[illegible] three years. As fast as [illegible]es are completed troops [illegible] They are constantly [illegible] and engaged in anti-[illegible] drills.

Pictures of the Atlantic wall are [illegible]ished by the Germans [illegible] for propaganda purposes in an effort to convince the Germans of the impregnability of the European fortress. In the main they reveal it has the same characteristics as the west wall.

The Germans contend Hitler [illegible] by the weakness of the Maginot line in planning the flexible West Wall and now has incorporated the costly lessons which the Russians taught him in the east.

The Germans for example have [illegible] in all openings on first and second story levels of houses and stores in the evacuated channel coast towns. Thus the invader is deprived of the protection of doorways and house interiors while the Germans have converted them to their own use as forts. In addition a maze of barbed wire runs through all the streets and promenades.

From German descriptions it appears the wall's heaviest protection is outside of towns, concentrated along bays and ports from the largest to the smallest and along every coastal stretch which seems vulnerable.

The Germans say they have developed a new type of anti-tank wall or reinforced concrete along the flat coastal stretches which would be ideal for landing tanks. The massive wall has the appearance of a breakwater. German reports said it extends for miles.

A toadstool type of anti-tank defense made of pyramids of steel-reinforced concrete have been poured around gun batteries to protect them from air blasts. Tunnels which have been bored into the cliffs permit Big Bertha railway guns to roll back under cover.

Booby Trap Detector
In the snow, in the sand, on the beaches, on the roads, in the woods, everywhere the Axis soldiers hide "booby traps," to slow the movement of oncoming fighting men of the United Nations. The detector does the same work on land as the mine sweeper does at sea.

Like buying War Bonds, the soldier operating the detectors will never know just how much they have aided in the success of their campaign, but he knows his work is necessary and must be accomplished. If more Americans on the home front will come to realize this, the success of our War Bond campaigns will be assured.

NEW ALLISON ENGINE READY FOR BOMBERS

U. S. Likely To Use Motor in Giant Planes.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20 — The new aircraft engine, a powerful liquid-cooled motor probably will power the army's huge new bomber, learned today.

It marks the first time the powerful liquid-cooled motors, although they develop lower horsepower for most of the existing planes.

The army has approved the 2,000-horsepower, and is ready to put a suitable plane into battle.

The design is understood of the new and powerful which Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold said his 8th air force hopes to have in operation over Europe soon — the plane Gen. H. H. Arnold air force commander, had in mind when he said several months ago the Liberators and Flying Fortresses were "the last of the small bombers."

The new bomber is said to possess a much larger bomb load and greater range than any plane now in use.

The only plane in actual use which is powered with a 2,000-horsepower liquid-cooled engine is Britain's new fighter, the Hawker-Typhoon, which uses the Napier Sabre engine.

CHURCHILL'S SPEECH PLEASES LEADERS

Congress Members Find Reassurance in Address.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20—From the halls of Congress which recently rang with criticism of America's war intentions there arose today a hallelujah for Prime Minister Churchill's pledge that the British would battle side by side with the United States until Japan and all other enemies are crushed.

While there were a few dissenting voices, most senators saw in the British leaders 50-minute review of the war before a great united nations gathering in the house yesterday a complete answer to those who have urged making Japan the No. 1 enemy and who have doubted whether Britain would help the United States beat Japan once the Nazis are punched out of the war.

But Senator Chandler (D-Ky), who took the lead in criticising British intentions in Monday's senate debate, declared the prime minister left several major questions unanswered. Churchill, he said, had failed to convince him Japan should be left as the last of the axis to beat.

He contended moreover that Churchill did not explain why Britain's forces in India had not made a "more effective attempt" to open the Burma road, what help either Britain or the United States can hope to get from Russia, or what Russia's intentions are with respect to world peace.

On the other hand, a large majority of legislators interviewed were reassured by the speech. Senator McNary, the Republican leader, said it "was measurably satisfying," and Senator George (D-Ga), regarded it as a "magnificent and helpful speech which gave reassurance to those people who thought the war was not being prosecuted with sufficient vigor in the Pacific."

Senator Bone (D-Wash) who hails from an area where sentiment for shifting the war emphasis to Japan has been strongest, said "I think Mr. Churchill's speech will help to clarify thinking."

Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) asserted that the address did more to satisfy the minds of Doubting Thomases among the American people than any other speech," and Chairman May (D-Ky) of the house military committee said it "gives hope and inspiration to every allied nation engaged in the war."

GALION GRADUATES PLAN PROGRAMS

More Than 100 To Receive Diplomas May 27.

Special to The Star

GALION, May 20—Rounding out 12 years of study, the 111 candidates of the 1943 graduating class of Galion Senior High school begin final school events this Friday night when the junior-senior reception is held at the Galion Country club. Baccalaureate services will be held at 8:15 p. m. Sunday at Senior High auditorium. Commencement is slated for Thursday evening, May 27.

The list of candidates has not been approved by the board of education. A special meeting of the board is slated for Wednesday, May 26, the day before commencement.

The book is edited by Shirley Self, who was assisted by other staff members, and the faculty sponsor of the book, Miss Miriam Sayre. Because of war conditions, the book will not be off the press before the middle of June.

STATE DEFENSE ACT UP IN LEGISLATURE

House To Vote on Enlarged Powers for Council.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20—A proposed law giving the state defense council authority to direct, supervise and coordinate activities of the local defense councils came up for a vote in the house of representatives today.

The state council, under present law, may only coordinate local defense operations.

The measure, already approved by the senate, would provide a maximum fine of $500 and 60 days in jail for violators of defense regulations and would empower civilian defense authorities to suspend traffic and lighting ordinances in emergencies.

The senate, by refusing to agree to appointment of a second conference committee, virtually killed a bill increasing the salaries of probate judges and abolishing their fees from inheritance taxes.

The house had rejected the first conference committee's recommendation that probate judges be allowed to charge a $1 fee for a marriage certificate.

A measure proposing creation of a state board to regulate and license watchmakers, which had been approved by the senate, was defeated yesterday by the house, 57 yes to 64 no.

The house completed action on legislation authorizing the use of one metal license plate by motorists next year. Two plates are now required.

The senate gave final approval to a bill increasing from 14 years to 16 the age limit of girls who may be transferred from the girls' industrial school to the women's reformatory.

New Poster Features Minute Man

The most recent poster to be released by the Treasury Department is the work of John Atherton, noted painter and illustrator whose earlier "Buy a Share in America" was a prize winner in the New York Museum of Modern Art's poster competition. His latest poster, shown above, depicts Daniel Chester French's famous statue of the Minute Man of Concord and Lexington. Few artists can claim Atherton's distinction in both commercial illustrating and surrealist painting. U. S. Treasury Department

PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN UNION CO. COURT

Bond Placed at $10,000 in Armed Robbery Case.

MARYSVILLE—May 20—George Homer Hogan 35, of Middletown, entered a plea of innocent Wednesday when arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Richard L. Cameron on a charge of armed robbery and his trial was set for June 3. Bond was placed at $10,000 and he was returned to jail.

A change of venue was requested for Hogan, by his attorney, William J. Porter of this city, former Union county prosecutor. The request was made, Porter said, because he did not believe Hogan would get a fair trial here due to extensive newspaper publicity concerning the case. Judge Cameron indicated that the request would be denied but stated that a petition could be filed before time for the trial.

Hogan was arrested near here Saturday shortly after he allegedly robbed two Marysville business men and slugged them with a pistol when they grappled with him. The bandit has prison records in Ohio, Kentucky and Virginia, having escaped from institutions in each of the three states, the last time on April 3.

Man Hunted As Killer of Lieutenant's Wife

By The Associated Press

TULLAHOMA, Tenn., May 20—Police Chief W. C. Hale said today search was being made for a Negro cafe operator who had been named by others as the killer of Mrs. Norma Faye Scogin, 19, wife of Lieut. George L. Scogin, of Des Moines, Ia., who is stationed at nearby Camp Forrest.

Mrs. Scogin's body was found near a road three miles from here yesterday and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and criminal assault. She had been shot twice through the breast and beat around the head, apparently with a pistol butt.

MINES

fairs in the big east Ohio and West Virginia panhandle district.

"The mine workers are sick and tired of being made a political football between the administration and Chairman Davis of the war labor board," Pacifico said.

Wilhelm said he tried to argue with the committee that told him the miners were quitting, pointing out that President John L. Lewis of the UMW had extended a contract truce to the end of the month.

"We are running this local," Wilhelm quoted the men as replying.

The committee members, Joe Kalis, Charles Wise, and Joe Vechazone, were not available at once for comment.

The Willow Grove mine, owned and operated by the M. A. Hanna Co. of Cleveland, produces about 4,500 tons a day and is one of the largest in the company's Ohio fields. The company made no comment on the walkout.

The company said its three other pits still were operating. They are Piney Fork, Dunglen and Georgetown, all in this area.

Labor Board Clears Deck for Coal Case

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20—The war labor board arranged its calendar today to permit a final decision in the soft coal dispute by next Monday or Tuesday.

Operators who had been asked to stand by for a possible call for further collective bargaining or questioning by a three-man panel disclosed the board had withdrawn the request.

The operators also reported board officials told them the panel report probably would be completed on Saturday but would not be made public until the full board makes a decision, probably Monday or Tuesday.

Factual Report Due

The WLB has made it clear to the panel that its report is to be factual and without recommendations.

A majority of the panel, the public and labor members, are reported to view with favor the UMW demands for portal-to-portal compensation, that is, payment for the time they spend in underground travel to and from their actual working places. The travel time for all underground workers varies and both sides concede their would be difficulty in paying for it on an individual basis. Besides, many UMW members—all who work above ground—would receive nothing under such an agreement, and union leaders do not want to risk the dissatisfaction which would result.

The alternative, it is reported, would be a flat sum, approximately $1 a day, for all employes. In addition, the panel majority is said to favor some of the minor demands, such as elimination of the cap lamp rental fee, amounting to 7 or 8 cents a day.

A decision next Monday or Tuesday would be well in advance of expiration of the truce extended by UMW President John L. Lewis to May 31. Whether Lewis will accept the decision is problematical, but there is little doubt that his refusal to do so would mean that Secretary Ickes would retain control of the mines for the duration.

Day's Bond Total in City Schools Reaches $14,025

Marion city school pupils yesterday placed orders for war bonds having a maturity value of $14,025, far surpassing their $5,000 quota in the bomber drive and bringing words of praise from Carl E. Danner, bomber drive chairman.

A concerted effort was made throughout the city public schools yesterday to exchange stamp books and school savings accounts for war bonds, bringing in the total reported this morning.

At the same time, St. Mary Parochial school reported it has made sales totaling $4,200 toward the bomber drive this month.

This gives the combined public and parochial school participation in the bomber campaign a total credit of $18,225 to date.

"If everyone in Marion county were as loyal and enthusiastic about the campaign as the school pupils, the bomber drive would be over the top right now," Chairman Danner declared this morning. He said he felt the schools already have made a "wonderful" showing.

The city schools will hold another concerted sales effort on May 26, following the same general plan used yesterday. St. Mary schools will continue bond selling activities, and the rural schools are participating in the drive, although no arrangements have been made on a countywide basis for reporting their purchases separately.

Individual figures, in terms of maturity values, reported by the various schools yesterday are: Pearl Street, $2,350; George Washington, $1,425; Oakland, $1,100; Harding High, $1,675; Central Junior High, $1,025; Edison Junior High, $500; Vernon Heights Junior High, $1,675; Forest Lawn, $475; Mark Street, $225; Glenwood, $325; Greenwood, $1,975; North Main, $250; Oak, $325; Olney, $700; Silver $325.

Churchill's Speech Raises Question of Shift in Strategy

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

British Prime Minister Churchill in his address at the joint session of congress yesterday made a couple of statements which give rise to the question of whether he had signalled any fundamental change in allied strategy, and they were these:

1. "Regard the bringing of effective and immediate aid to China as one of the most urgent of our common tasks."

2. "Opinion, Mr. Roosevelt, is divided as to whether the use of air power could by itself bring about the collapse of Germany and Italy. The experiment is well worth trying, so long as other measures are not excluded."

These striking passages naturally make one wonder whether the high command has abandoned the program of regarding Hitler as enemy No. 1, and has given up the idea of invading the continent at the earliest feasible moment. As a matter of fact it's quite likely Mr. Churchill deliberately has invited speculation with the idea of causing the enemy to burn midnight oil over the problem.

No Clue Found

However, search of his speech fails to reveal to me any change in the basic policy laid down at the beginning of 1942. The welcome indication that "effective and immediate aid" is to be given to hard-pressed China thus throwing more weight into the war on Japan doesn't mean that the allies are easing up in their attack on Hitler and are moving all their war equipment into the Pacific. It does mean the allies have amassed sufficient striking power so they can devote more energy to both jobs at once.

We seem to get plenty of substantiation for that thought in this important statement by the prime minister:

"In our conferences in January, 1942, between the President and myself, and between our high expert advisors, it was evident that while the defeat of Japan would not mean the defeat of Germany, the defeat of Germany would infallibly mean the ruin of Japan. The realization of this simple truth does not mean that both sides should not proceed together * * *."

Another indication of the allied determination not to slacken in the European campaign is seen in Churchill's statement that "we must do everything in our power that is sensible and practical to take more of the weight off Russia in 1943." This was coupled with his prediction that Hitler "is reserving his supreme gambler's throw for a third attempt to break" Russia.

Believe in Air Power

Still, doing everything "sensible and practical" for the Muscovites wouldn't necessarily include invasion and establishment of that second front which they are so anxious to see in France. Here we come up against the premier's suggestion about trying to knock Italy and Germany out by bombing. Does this mean invasion has been abandoned?

It's hard to believe so. Mr. Churchill is a great believer in the efficacy of air power,—as who isn't these days as we see this fighting service playing a major part in our progress towards victory? However, he is a military expert of long standing, and nobody ever heard him say you could occupy an enemy country and mop up its army with warplanes. Somewhere along the line a big allied army has got to be put ashore on the continent to deal with Hitler's powerful land forces.

It's true, however, that you've got to bomb hell out of Italy and Germany before it will be feasible to invade with troops. We are in process of doing exactly this, and one suspects the shrewd Mr. Churchill has the idea that maybe we might be lucky enough to kill two birds with one stone.

If either Italy or Germany, or both of 'em, should crack up under the bombing—why so much the better. Certainly Italy might succumb to air pressure, since she already is in the frame of mind to quit.

CRESTLINE PRISONER OF JAPANESE DIES

Parents of James Helfrich Notified by Red Cross.

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, May 20—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Helfrich of Crestline received a message at 1 a. m. today from the International Red Cross that their son, James Helfrich, 25, who was a prisoner of the Japanese, died May 14 at 7 a. m.

Taken prisoner at the fall of Corregidor in January last year, he was reported as missing in action by the U. S. War department May 20.

He was born in Crestline, and was a graduate of the Crestline High school. He entered the service March 24, 1941 and was stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va. From there he went to Westover Field, Mass., then returned to the Goodyear Rubber Co. in Akron for special training. Oct. 4, 1941 he left for San Francisco and sailed for the Philippine Islands where he was stationed at Ft. Stotsenberg, Pampanga.

Surviving besides the parents is a sister, Mrs. John Eckenrode of Mansfield.

TOKYO

of the water and several others were damaged.

"However, later in the morning, the weather cleared up sufficiently to permit enemy aircraft to add their support to the landing forces and finally in the afternoon the Americans were able to put ashore a party of troops," the broadcast continued.

"Japanese machine-gun emplacements and gunposts along the beach and in ridges ripped a deadly cross-fire through the enemy ranks, but having gained a beachhead on both Holtz and Massacre bays the enemy succeeded in landing strong reinforcements, though he suffered extremely heavy losses in the operation."

The Japanese reporter asserted another American landing attempt with 250 men at 7 o'clock that night at Salana bay was ambushed.

"The following day heavy fighting continued along the shores of Holtz and Massacre bays," the report continued. "The Japanese maintained their positions in the ridges overlooking the beaches and the Americans driving in to attack were repulsed repeatedly with costly losses.

Attack Forces Retreat

"The same day enemy warships approached Attu closer to give support to their ground forces." (Here the Japanese account of the asserted damage to a warship was repeated.)

The enemy account said a surprise attack by a Japanese force that night caused an American retreat of 600 yards almost to the beach of Holtz bay.

The broadcast went on:

"The Japanese on May 14 continued to exact a heavy toll on the enemy's landing attempts and accounted for from 700 to 800 Americans during the day.

"However, after continuous warship and aircraft bombardment of their positions had resulted in their losing more than two-thirds of their strength, the Japanese commanding officer ordered his men to take up new positions in the ridges. This operation was carried out at night. Enemy scouting patrols were on all sides. Despite these difficulties this small body of our troops managed not only to maintain contact with our main force but also to bring in 13 American prisoners captured during the day. * * *

"The returning men were near exhaustion after sleepless nights and long days in their exposed positions along the beach, and though there was not a single man free of some wound, they were grinning when their comrades offered them food and cigarets.

"Next day saw the Japanese holding firm * * *. Shortly after 11 a. m. word came that the Japanese headquarters of our positions in the ridge to the east of Holtz bay was destroyed by the combined bombardment of aircraft and warships."

Other Pacific developments saw Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombs pound the Japanese base at Koepang, Dutch New Guinea, destroying probably seven enemy planes, while on the Burma front both American and British raiders stepped up the fury of their assault on the Japanese.

U. S. Army Tenth Air Force planes dropped more than 100 tons of bombs on enemy fuel depots, rail targets and other objectives along a 175-mile stretch in the Irrawaddy river valley, which lies between Mandalay and Rangoon, and left huge fires burning.

British headquarters reported "no change" on the Arakan front, along the Bay of Bengal coast, where the Japanese have been driving toward the India-Burma frontier amid Tokyo boasts that the Mikado's armies were preparing to "liberate" India's 390,000,000.

age. A small number of persons were injured.

Meanwhile, the air ministry denied today in a statement that the idea for the bombing of the Moehne and Eder dams by the RAF Sunday originated from private citizens, and declared that all war-important objectives in Germany have been studied with a view to attack "at the most favorable time."

Dispatches through neutral sources had said the Nazis threatened reprisal against Jews in Germany on the basis of a London report that a German-Jewish medical specialist, now a refugee here, had suggested the attack on the reservoirs.

The air ministry reported last night that flood waters from both the Eder and Moehne dams are rolling destructively forward and that the Ruhr and Weser valleys "present a most mournful spectacle."

William Halcrow, British engineer and world authority on dam design, said two years probably would be required to repair damage to the two dams.

Crews Report Bases Beaten To Pulp

AT A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN BRITAIN, May 20—Crews returning from the Flying Fortress raids on the Kiel and Flensburg naval building centers reported they had left the target areas raging with flame.

Describing the Flensburg foray, Second Lieut. B. E. Howenstein of Fort Wayne, Ind., navigator of the Fortress "Flakhappy," said "as we turned off after making a bomb run over Kiel, I could see smoke rising from Flensburg to a height estimated at 5,000 feet."

All the crews at this station agreed the fighter opposition was mild compared with the determination with which the German air force pressed home attacks the first time Americans made the 1,000-mile round-trip to Kiel.

Lieut. J. J. O'Brien of Lima, O., bombardier on the Fortress "Dotty J." said "it looked to me like that target was beat to a pulp."

"The weather was perfect; we just couldn't miss—and we didn't," said Capt. C. B. Hamilton of Portland, Ore., pilot on the "Patsy Ann," who added "I'm sure as hell a sub nest is out of business."

Great U. S. Aerial Offensive Against Japan Seen as Goal of Attack on Attu

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20—Development of a sustained aerial offensive against Japan was foreseen here today as the ultimate objective of the current American campaign in the Aleutians.

No other area of the Pacific theater where military operations are under way offers sites for bases so threateningly close to the heart of the enemy's empire.

From those bases, as strategists here see the picture, mighty new bombers of the Army air force may strike across the North Pacific sometime this summer at Tokyo itself and planes of lesser range may raid the enemy's defensive posts in the Kuriles islands, little more than 600 miles from Attu. The smaller planes also could cover an amphibious expedition against the Kuriles when the time comes to take them over for short range bombing of Japan.

American reconquest of the western Aleutians, therefore, may be taken as evidence that the goal of laying waste Japanese cities from the air, mentioned by Prime Minister Churchill yesterday, already has reached the stage of preparatory action.

The preparations would be speeded up greatly should Russia decide to make available air bases in Siberia and the Kamchatka peninsula. That such a decision may be possible despite Russia's guarded aloofness from the Pacific war so far was suggested by two statements in the prime minister's speech.

One was his assertion that allied chieftains were seeking to solve the military, geographical and political difficulties which now lie in the way of bombing Japan. Diplomatic observers immediately seized upon his use of "political difficulties" as a reference to Russia, and linked it to his forthright expression of hope that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China and Premier Stalin of Russia soon might meet with him and President Roosevelt.

At present the most advanced American base is Amchitka island, 283 nautical miles southeast of Attu. The Japanese, however, have been reported blasting out flight strips on both Attu and Kiska islands and presumably the Army air force will lose no time in completing what the enemy had started if surveys prove the projects practical.

TRIAL

Brinkman were the official witnesses to Bevard's confession.

Just before the noon recess was called by Judge C. U. Ahl, Prosecutor Scanlon completed the reading of the confession which he said was obtained from Bevard at the time of his capture by city and county police officers.

Other witnesses called yesterday and today were Ed Willacker, proprietor of the Court cafe where Mrs. Reed was employed as a waitress, Patrolman Ed Trucks of the Bucyrus police force, Mrs. Sarah Angene, proprietor of the rooming house in which Bevard and his victim lived and Dr. O. R. Kackley of Crestline, Crawford county coroner.

Mr. Willacher testified that Mrs. Reed, in applying for work at his cafe, represented herself as Mrs. Glore Bevard, wife of a soldier stationed at nearby Camp Millard. Patrolman Trucks told the court he was called to the Bevard apartment by Mrs. Sarah Angene and that he used a skeleton key to unlock the door to the apartment. Inside, he said, he found the body of Mrs. Reed. Dr. Kackley described the condition of the victim's body at the time he conducted an autopsy.

Others Called

Nine other witnesses have been supoenaed by the state but Prosecutor Scanlon indicated these might not be called. Among those who might not be called are P. G. Cook, a roomer at the home where Mrs. Reed was slain. Patrolmen Bates and Fuller of the Mansfield police department who assisted Bucyrus police with photographing the apartment and the victim's body. Dr. E. C. Brandt of Crestline, who assisted the county coroner, Mayor W. A. Whiteamire, Dr. W. G. Carlisle and Irvin Lutz, undertaker who prepared the victim's body for burial.

Only a few spectators besides Bevard's immediate family have attended the first two days of the trial.

TAX ULTIMATUM ISSUED BY SENATOR

Pay-Go Plan To Be Dropped George Warns.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20—Chairman George, Democrat of Georgia of the senate finance committee today issued what amounted to a tax ultimatum. He said that unless a joint senate-house conference group could agree within three days on a compromise bill he would be ready to abandon pay-as-you-go tax legislation this session. And little hope for agreement was left when House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts announced he was strongly opposed to a compromise and would insist on adoption of the modified Ruml skip-a-year plan.

A $29,463,687,198 naval supply bill, boosting the nation's war outlay to date to an estimated total of a trillion dollars, awaited only a functory house passage with no dissenting vote in sight—now that the members know none of it will be spent for whisky. Disclosure of where the money came went to buy 2,400 pints of liquor at the Hot Springs, Va., food conference brought up the question in debate yesterday of whether any of the naval funds went that route. Members said no, but asserted the conference beverage was supplied by a special state department fund under direct control of the President.

Beaten in their first skirmish in the finance committee by a coalition which tacked on an amendment to the trade agreements extension bill permitting congress to end such deals six months after the war, administration strategists planned a counter raid of Republican ranks to win enough votes to knock off the amendment on the senate floor.

As of noon today, any pleasure driving in 12 eastern states, part of another and the District of Columbia may cost the violators their gasoline rations for the duration. The Opa scrapped the "honor system" and announced the reinstated ban last night, terming the "al-time low" condition of eastern supplies cause of the move.

FLOOD

flooded area was 10, six in Indiana, three in Missouri and one in Oklahoma, while the estimated number of persons driven from their homes was more than 22,000—including 12,000 in Indiana and 10,000 in Illinois. Many others were evacuated from homes in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Kansas.

As the Red Cross sought to aid the 12,000 homeless in Indiana, the swollen Wabash river appeared to be falling slowly for 250 miles south of Wabash, Ind., but a gradual rise still was noted at Terre Haute, where damage was most widespread. Every levee but one protecting the city proper was washed out. Parts of West Terre Haute were island seas of roof-tops and about 6,000 persons moved to higher reaches of the city.

Rivermen at Terre Haute said a gradual rise still was noted in the Wabash today and they predicted a crest three feet above the peak reached during the 1913 flood disaster.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, after a boat tour of the Terre Haute area, said:

"It is hard to realize just how bad the condition is until one has seen it close at hand."

Two companies of army engineers were in Vincennes (Ind.) constructing an earth-filled timber box three feet high along 5,100 feet of concrete levee, and sandbagging some 3,000 feet of earth levee.

Navy crews from the Indianapolis armory were sent to Newport, and military police from Fort Benjamin Harrison were dispatched to Peru, Terre Haute and Washington, Ind.

A large part of Indiana's coal mines lay in the path of the yellow water below Terre Haute. Work in the block coal fields around Sullivan halted yesterday.

Northern and central towns miles from the Wabash, which had been menaced by normally tiny streams grown a mile and a half wide in some places, reported the situation was easing.

Maumee River Crest Moves Into Bay

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., May 20—The crest of a flood moved down the Maumee river into the bay today as much of northwest Ohio's farmland still was under water and a score of residents were forced from their homes.

A mass of flood waters raced down the Maumee river with such speed that only a small boat was able to get through the river bridges yesterday and traffic in the usually busy port of Toledo was halted by the strongest current since 1913.

The crest of the flood moved slowly down the Maumee valley from Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday and was believed to be passing below Grand Rapids, O., at 8 a. m. today.

The rich river valley land inundated down to the bay and surrounding Sidecut park on the Maumee. From Defiance, O., to Toledo, river bottom land, much plowed and planted, lay under water while all islands in the river showed only their treetops. Surprisingly few farmers had evacuated from their homes in the river towns during the height of the flood threat.

THE ISSUE

The Star: In my opinion of the dog and cat is entirely lost in an attempt to convince the public of personal love of pets.

The government requested all persons having space, to plant a Victory garden. The city council, to protect these gardens, passed an ordinance curbing the freedom of these animals.

That's the issue. It's a fair one. Tender plants and sprouting seeds cannot stand the ravages of dogs or cats, so why not fall in line and show your patriotism by being a good neighbor, respecting the rights of people to plant and cultivate in an effort to feed their families.

It is not a question of who loves dogs or cats. Everyone who has a pet thinks when he opens the door, that his animal would do no harm. But when Fido or Tabby returns to the "haven of rest" after an hour of exercise, the probability is each has tramped over or broken off something that could have been eaten.

A NEIGHBOR.

BITTEN UNINTENTIONALLY

Editor of The Star: At the time I carried The Marion Star we had a Scotch collie shepherd dog that we called "Old Pup." She was a great attraction along my paper route out West Columbia street and beyond the railroad. Also, when we went fishing, swimming, skating or sliding with the neighbor kids.

But the day came when Old Pup got old and cross. She snapped at several people, finally bit our mail man.

"Consarn it," my father said. "We'll have to kill Old Pup, although I hate to do it!" And he did.

I believe Old Pup was just as dear to us as anybody else's dog is to them, and I believe father did right when he disposed of our cross old dog.

Now in this modern day when one is bitten by a dog, as I was recently, and is assured by the owner that "our dog never is cross; surely he didn't mean to bite you"—then I suppose one is to say, "Oh, that's all right. I know he didn't mean it. I won't report it, just let him bite some more people if he feels like it."

I'll be dogoned!

D. A. GOMPF.

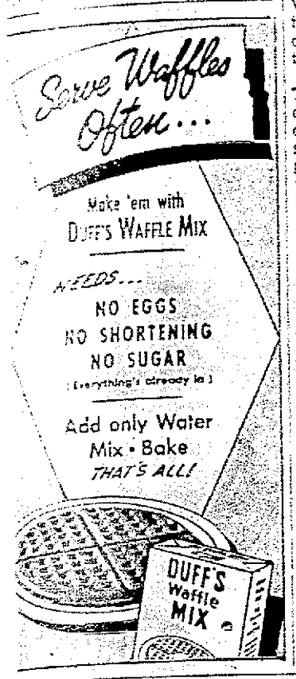
Delaware Co. Soldier Gets More Laurels

DELAWARE, May 20—Staff Sgt. Carl E. Cleland of three miles east of Kilbourne has been awarded an oak leaf cluster as an addition to an air medal previously won, his mother Mrs. Luther Cleland announced yesterday. The cluster was presented to Sgt. Cleland at the same time a similar award was made to Capt. Billy Southworth, son of the St. Louis Cardinal manager whose home is near Sunbury. Sgt. Cleland, a radioman and gunner, has been in the Army one year.



Tomato Rarebit Recipe

BY BETSY NEWMAN

You can make a "main dish" with cheese combined with macaron, spaghetti, rice, eggs, meat or fish, and it is satisfying and "staying." Baked potatoes may be served with a cheese sauce or rarebit for the meatless meal. I'll give you a Tomato Rarebit recipe that will be excellent served over toast or crackers, or with the baked potatoes.

MENU

Baked Potatoes, Tomato Rarebit, Brussels Sprouts, Mixed Green Salad, Rhubarb Pie, Hot Drink.

Tomato Rarebit

2 tbsps. fat, ½ small onion, chopped, ½ green pepper, chopped, ½ c. finely cut celery, 2 tbsps. flour, 2 c. tomatoes, ½ lb. cheese, shaved thin, 1 tsp. salt, 2 eggs, well beaten.

Melt fat in heavy skillet, stir in onion, celery and pepper, and cook a few minutes, stirring frequently. Add flour, tomatoes, cheese and salt. Stir and cook over low heat until mixture thickens and cheese melts. Pour some of mixture into well-beaten eggs, pour all back into skillet and cook until thickened and creamy. Serve on toast, crackers, or potatoes.

Rhubarb Pie—Deep Dish

1 lb. fresh or canned rhubarb, ½ c. sugar, 1 tbsp. margarine, Pastry for 1 crust, Cinnamon or nutmeg if liked.

Cut rhubarb into small pieces, mix with sugar and put into rather deep baking dish, sprinkle with spice, if you use it, and cut margarine or butter into small pieces and sprinkle on top. You can put a tea cup or egg cup upside down in the middle if you wish, to catch the juice. Put on crust with slits for steam to escape, and bake 20 minutes, or until nicely browned and the rhubarb cooked, at 400 degrees F. The amount of sugar given may not be enough to suit your family.

Two-Crust Pie

1 lb. rhubarb, 2-3 c. sugar, 1 tsp. butter or margarine, 2 tbsps. flour, Pastry for 2 crusts.

Fit pie crust in pie pan, put 1-3 cup sugar and the flour on the crust, dice rhubarb on top, add rest of sugar and dot with bits of butter or margarine. Cover with top crust and bake at 400 degrees F. 30 minutes or until done. You can season with cinnamon if you like.

Some Ration-Free Recipes

By ALICE DENHOFF

There is no preamble necessary these days when presenting low-point or ration-free recipes. So we'll just go ahead and pass on some excellent ones that have been tried out by friends.

The first is a splendid and nourishing cream of vegetable soup, hearty fare for a small-meat course or meatless dinner. Boil ¾ cup rice in a quart of water until almost tender. Add 2 cups chopped vegetables (onions, tomatoes, turnips, greens, carrots); add also 2 teaspoons salt and continue boiling until vegetables are just tender. Add 2 cups evaporated milk and heat slowly but not enough to curdle. Economical, too, since this will serve 6.

Salad

A hearty salad is also a good way of eking out a reduced meat or meat allowance. For 6 servings of a good salad combine 2½ cups cooked kidney beans, ¾ cup chopped sweet pickle, 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs and ½ cup chopped celery, tossing mixture lightly with a fork. Mix ½ cup evaporated milk and ¼ cup vinegar, ½ tsp salt, 2 slices bacon, fried, ½ tsp salt, 2 slices bacon, fried, 1 tablespoon onion, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 1 tablespoon parsley. Pour boiling water over liver and soak. Trim, if necessary, rub in flour and salt. Put strips of bacon across the top and toothpicks. Place diced vegetables in bottom of baking dish, add water and lay liver on vegetables. Bake at 325-350 degrees F. for about 1½ hours. Baste frequently and add water as needed. Cover if too dry. Strain vegetables from liquor and pour over liver when served. Young beef, calf, lamb or pork liver may be used. Calf's liver is too tender to skin. Serves 6.

Celery Dish

Celery soup stock should save this one. Cook 1½ cups finely cut celery stalks and leaves in a cup of water for 10 minutes. Combine with 3 cups milk and one cup spinach or meat broth or 3 cups milk and 2 green bouillon cubes. Add 2 teaspoons onion, 2 teaspoons salt, a teaspoon celery salt, dash of cayenne and ¼ teaspoon minced onion and place in double boiler over rapidly boiling water. Cook for 10 to 12 minutes after water in pan again, stirring frequently. Add 2 tablespoons butter. Serves 6.

Baked Stuffed Fish

Fish becomes a satisfying and very savory dish when baked with a good stuffing. This particular stuffing is especially good with bass. Use a 2 or 3 pound fish for 6 servings. To make the dressing combine 1½ cups coarse cracker crumbs, 2 tablespoons each chopped parsley and chopped celery leaves, ½ teaspoon grated onion, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¾ teaspoon rosemary, 3 tablespoons melted fat and tablespoon lemon juice. Mix well.

Wash fish and sprinkle inside with salt. Fill cavity with stuffing. Close the opening with toothpicks and string or sew. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, brush with tablespoon fat, melted. Place in baking dish and bake at 425° F. for 10 minutes.

A Menu Topped by Baked Liver

By BETSY NEWMAN

I HOPE YOU are serving liver at least once a week. Some people seem to be prejudiced against lamb liver, which I have found very good. Pork liver is mild and both are less expensive than calf's liver.

MENU

Liver and Onions or Baked Liver, Riced or Baked Potatoes, Asparagus, Cole Slaw, Orange Sponge Cake, Tea.

Baked Liver

1½ lbs. unsliced liver, 1 tbsp. flour, ½ tsp salt, 2 slices bacon, ½ cup water, 1 tablespoon onion, 1 carrot, 1 stalk celery, 1 sprig parsley.

Pour boiling water over liver and soak. Trim, if necessary, rub in flour and salt. Put strips of bacon across the top and toothpicks. Place diced vegetables in bottom of baking dish, add water and lay liver on vegetables. Bake at 325-350 degrees F. for about 1½ hours. Baste frequently and add water as needed. Cover if too dry. Strain vegetables from liquor and pour over liver when served. Young beef, calf, lamb or pork liver may be used. Calf's liver is too tender to skin. Serves 6.

Orange Sponge Cake

2 egg yolks, ¼ c. orange juice, 1 tbsp. lemon juice, ½ tsp grated orange rind, ¾ c. sugar, 2 egg whites, 1 c. flour, sifted with ½ tsp. baking soda.

Beat egg yolks, add next four ingredients and beat well. Fold in egg whites (beaten stiff), flour and vanilla; pour and bake in loaf or tube pan in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 35 to 40 minutes.

3. Have eggs twice weekly as the main dish for dinners. Cream or combine them with other foods for variety (fresh peas, mushrooms, cheese or leftover fish or fowl). Eggs should be more plentiful now and can be served in omelet, scrambled blends, souffle or fondue.

4. Combine meat with pastry in pot pie or meat rolls.

5. For dessert serve fresh or dried fruit with a wedge of unrationed cream or blue cheese or a small ball of cottage cheese.

6. To save fuel bake puddings or cakes to be used at a future time when the oven is going for a baked dinner.

7. Sponge cakes take no shortening and less sugar than the usual butter cakes, so have them often.

8. Sliced bacon goes farther than bacon sliced at home.

9. Pay especial attention to selecting foods that have variety of color, flavor and texture.

10. Have a festive dessert to finish off the dinner of creamed eggs or other meat alternates.

Baby's Photo Has New Importance in Days of War

Portrait photographs of baby, like so many things that were part of the normal routine peacetime practice, but somthing the family could get around to a leisure, take on an entirely new and important meaning during war times.

Here is going to be the means for giving many a father who is now in the armed services and far from home, his first chance to see what his baby looks like.

A picture of the baby that came after he left is fully as important to him as the picture of him in his uniform to his wife, or his mother.

Here, too, is the means that the wife of a service man will seize at every opportunity—almost periodically—during the absence of father, to keep him closely acquainted with the development of the youngsters he is most interested in, back on the home front that he is fighting to preserve.

In much the same manner will pictures that are now made of babies, serve to bridge the difficult distance between grandparents and grand child. Difficulties of wartime travel can be surmounted in this instance by simply mailing a new picture of the youngster every now and then.

Appointments with professional portrait photographers should be made well in advance of the actual sitting, to give mother a chance to prepare baby, and also to give the busy photographer an opportunity to make the picture leisurely.

One picture that is a "must" for mailing to the father of a new born child, who is in the service, is a picture of baby in mother's arms.

CROWING PRODIGY

Rooster Develops Good Voice at Age of Two Weeks, Owner Reports

Mrs. Minnie Schiller of 865 Davids street reported today that she owns a five-week-old rooster that started to crow at the age of two weeks.

Mrs. Schiller, who has raised chickens for quite a few years, stated that although roosters start to make what they believe is a full throated crow when they are about four to six weeks old, it is rarely more than a squeaky croak.

The "crower" is one of a small flock of chickens which Mrs. Schiller has been keeping sheltered on a back porch.

New Type Carrier Guarding Atlantic

By The Associated Press

A BRITISH PORT, May 20.—Bristling with fighter planes, bombers and anti-aircraft guns, speedy American-built escort aircraft carriers are at work guarding the mid-Atlantic blind spot beyond the range of shore-based aircraft.

The wraps were taken off HMS Battler yesterday—one of the first of these new lend-lease anti-submarine weapons—and disclosed an all-welded, 492-foot vessel especially designed to shepherd convoys through the U-boat lanes. Several others are at sea.

The Battler was designed and built especially as an escort carrier and is not merely a converted freighter. She compares with large carriers in almost every detail except size. Her complement is 70 officers and 450 men. One air arm squadron assigned to the vessel already has bagged 23 Nazi planes.

Dodgers Soon Due To Lose 1st Place

Braves Likely To Take Over as Cards Pitching Smothers Dodgers.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Brooklyn Dodgers are in the position of the noisy tenants who are going to get kicked out of their top floor apartment as soon as the lease expires.

The Bums have been occupying the penthouse of the National league ever since the season started, but two consecutive defeats by the St. Louis Cardinals have placed them in jeopardy of losing their first place perch — not to the world champions but to the Boston Braves.

Boston, with good pitching and a surprisingly well-balanced attack, has won seven straight games, including a double header yesterday from the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 in 11 innings and 5-3.

If the Braves should win again today and the Dodgers lose, Boston would move into top place by a percentage margin of .652 to .630.

The Dodgers were smothered by southpaw pitching again yesterday 3-2 as Max Lanier and rookie Harry Brecheen combined to hold them to six hits.

Brooklyn's hopes for today's final game rested chiefly in the fact that they would be facing a righthanded pitcher for the first time in the series—but the righthander happened to be Mort Cooper, the league's leading pitcher last year.

In a move of desperation, Manager Leo Durocher planned to call on Rube Melton to pitch for the Dodgers on two days' rest. Buck Newsom would have drawn the assignment except that he was called to his home in South Carolina by illness in the family.

The Braves had difficulty in downing the Pirates in their first game, although Nate Andrews kept nine hits well spaced and allowed no runs after the first frame. However, the Braves weren't able to score against rookie Xavier Rescigno from the third till the 11th, when Johnny McCarthy singled, stole second, and sped home on a single by Whitey Wietelmann. McCarthy made four of the Braves' eight hits.

In the second game the first four Braves who came to bat against Hank Gornicki hit singles and knocked him out of the box in the midst of a three-run rally. George Jeffcoat, pitching five-hit ball, muzzled the Pirates on one run till the ninth, when they tallied twice and forced Jeffcoat to have help.

In the day's only other game Mel Ott hit a two-run homer off Johnny Vander Meer in the first inning to lead the New York Giants to a 3-2 conquest of the Cincinnati Reds.

All games in the American league were postponed for the third day in a row because of weather conditions, and the Chicago Cubs at Philadelphia in the National league also were postponed.

THE MARION STAR

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, May 20—There's nothing like a fight to start a fight, so here's another hot one getting under way . . . seems that Eddie Mack, the Boston promoter, is hollering to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York that Mike Jacobs is bossing the New York state athletic commission and, incidentally, damaging Mack's Willie Pepsal Bartolo featherweight "title" fight at Boston, June 8 . . . And since Mack was a sergeant during World war one, he's no green hand at hollerin.

A Long Story, Mates—The point of the yelp is that the New York commission's plan was for Bartolo to face ex-champion Chalky Wright and for the winner to fight Pep . . . But instead Willie and Sal signed for the Boston bout, so the commission refused to recognize it as a title scrap and picked Phil Terranova for the elimination . . . a lot of things seem to call for explanations, including how Massachusetts, A. N. B. A. state, can recognize Pep-Bartolo as a title scrap while Jackie Callura is N. B. A. champ . . . but Mack's holler is that Uncle Mike told the commission to say "no" because he wanted the fight for himself or at least a good piece of the profits . . . and Eddie, in phoning and writing to Dewey, offers to furnish proof . . .

That's Why Its Peoria—In case case you've wondered why Peoria (which isn't a bad spot at all) is the accepted symbol for a bush league town, here's what happened in a high school game there the other day . . . The third baseman made a put-out at second base on a throw from the right fielder, who picked up a ball that dropped between the center fielder and the second baseman . . . And in the same contest the umpire raced from the plate to second to call a play . . . Going back, he picked up his cap at the mound, his indicator halfway to the plate and then asked: "Where's my mask?" . . . it was under his arm.

Sportpourri—The Reds are using an extra-lively ball in batting practice and nearly knocking it out of the lot. So far they haven't been able to do the same to the revised balata ball . . . The knoll, a New Jersey Golf club which once charged nearly $5,000 initiation fee, now collects from $10 to $20 a month, according to the season, from its members . . . Maybe one reason why Jake Lamotta, the New York welterweight who fights Fritzie Zivic in Pittsburgh next week, is called the "one man gang" is that he needs all the family's six ration books to satisfy his appetite. Says Manager Mike Capriano: "I've never seen anyone with such devotion to a cow."

Doubleheaders Billed for AA Teams Tonight

By The Associated Press

The Tight American Association baseball race, in which only two games separate first from seventh place, may be in for a general shakeup tonight when all eight teams engage in double headers.

The barrage of twin bills resulted from a series of postponements this week. Only three games have been played since Sunday because of the weather.

Tonight's schedule: Minneapolise at Toledo, St. Paul at Columbus, Milwaukee at Indianapolis and Kansas City at Louisville.

Farmer Jones To Tackle Steve Nenoff In Double Main-Go Mat Show Tonight

Tonight for the first time since Farmer Jones skyrocketed from an Arkansas hog farm to the top bracket of the wrestling world, he'll be matched in a double main-go program at the Armory.

Jones is scheduled to match holds with genial Steve Nenoff, the Birmingham, Ala., Greek who in recent weeks has turned in victories over virtually all of the headline artists appearing here regularly.

In the second half of the main-go program Larry Kasaboski and Rene LaBell, a pair of Canadians, will tangle. In a series of three matches here two months each of the men won one semi-final victory and matched by Promoter Les Fishbaugh in a main-go two-hour event LaBell turned up as the match winner and also the winner of the series. By many of the dyed-in-the-wool mat fans this set of matches was one of the all-star attractions ever staged in Marion.

For the most part all three matches were fairly won. Neither fighter introduced more than a minimum amount of questionable tactics, but both demonstrated a maximum quantity of hard fighting. Both men are unusually fast and LaBell especially is tricky and combines trickery with innumerable masterful holds.

The one fall opener should be equally interesting with two main-go performers matched. They are John Vansky and Morris Shapiro. This match, a 30-minute affair, is slated to start at 8:30.

Southworth May Be Next Card Casualty

Bad Case of Shock Likely to be His Ailment.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—Manager Billy Southworth of the mishap-ridden St. Louis Cardinals probably would wind up as a hospital patient himself, with a severe case of shock, if he ever could put all his regular players on the field at one time.

So far this young season, eight members of the team have missed some action because of injury or illness, and it wouldn't be surprising if Southworth rolled his invalids to the plate in wheel chairs and handed them crutches for bats.

He almost was forced to such extremes in 1941 when the Cardinals' hospital list was a factor in their loss of the pennant. Martin Marion was the only player to escape the medical brigade in that season of mishaps, but the jinx finally caught up with him this year, and that may be a bad omen.

Ernie White, forced to retire while pitching against the Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday, is the latest casualty. He may be out for a week, or handicapped indefinitely, depending on his ability to overcome a pulled shoulder muscle.

12 RED HITS FAIL TO WIN GAME FROM GIANTS, VANDY LOSES

Cincinnati Leaves 12 on Bases; N. Y. Wins 3-2 on 5 Hits.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—It seems that the more the Cincinnati Reds hit the ball, the fewer runs they get.

That being no way to win a ball game, they didn't yesterday, although they got 12 hits to the New York Giants' five. The score was 3 to 2 for the Giants, and Johnny Vander Meer again was the victim. Ed Heusser and Clyde Shoun finished for him.

Mel Ott started the Giants out early with a two-run homer in the first inning and Sid Gordon tripled in the sixth and scored the winning run on a fly.

Meanwhile, the Reds left 12 men on bases, and the two most important were the two who could have scored the tying and winning runs in the ninth. Van Lingle Mungo, who relieved Bill Lohrman in this inning, made Eric Tipton foul out and the game was over despite the two runs the Reds scored earlier in the inning.

Tipton made a similar contribution in the first inning, when the Reds filled the bases on two walks and a single by Gee Walker. Eric then rolled the ball back to Lohrman for a doubleplay.

Max Marshall of the Reds had a fine day at bat with three singles and a double in five tries, but his run-batted-in-score was nix.

Today's program calls for Bucky Walters or Rookie Vernon Stone to try to pitch the Reds out of their difficulties. Johnny Wittig is the Giant pitcher.

TWO ROOKIES NAMED FOR PITCHING DUTY

Tribe Elects Salveson and Center for Doubleheader.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 20 — Two Rookies have been named to hurl for the Cleveland Indians in today's double header with the Boston Red Sox.

Spectacled Jack Salveson, who won 24 and lost 12 games with Oakland of the Pacific Coast league last year, receives his second starting assignment with the Tribe. The 27-year-old right hander shut out the Philadelphia Athletics 2 to 0 last Saturday.

Pete Center makes his initial start for the Redskins. Center won 13 games and lost 12 while pitching for Baltimore last season.

Tex Hughson and Kendall Chase are the Red Sox moundsmen in the bargain bill at League park.

The series opener with Boston has been postponed three times by weather.

The Indians and the league-leading New York Yankees will open a four-game series Friday night at the Lakefront stadium. A single contest is scheduled for Saturday and the series will end with a doublet at the stadium Sunday.

Braves Release Lefty Gomez

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, May 20—Lefty Vernon Gomez, who helped pitch the New York Yankees to seven pennants while winning 189 games for that glamour club in 13 seasons, has been given another unconditional release by those surprising Boston Braves without a regulation test.

But Gomez, without throwing a single pitch in a single league game, has done much to inspire that consistent seventh-place club into a terrific drive that has moved it to within a game of the first-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Most of his Braves teammates agree that his baseball superiority complexes, ingrained during his many years with the successful Yankees, has, by mere contact, helped them rid themselves of their heaviest repressions.

"If Gomez never works a game for us, he will more than earn his salary," one of the Braves' outstanding players said recently. "He still acts like a Yankee, for he considers all National league batters as second-raters and when he tells us we can murder the pitcher or beat those guys, we're convinced that we can."

As far as President Bob Quinn of the Braves is concerned, Gomez was a pitching insurance policy that now appears unnecessary.

Regardless of Gomez' skill as a morale builder, Quinn, due to major league baseball law, must cut his roster to 25 players by midnight tonight. Since all of the other hurlers on the club have proved themselves in competition, Gomez, who worked only a few innings for the Braves in a spring exhibition game, was the logical one to be cut from the pitching squad.

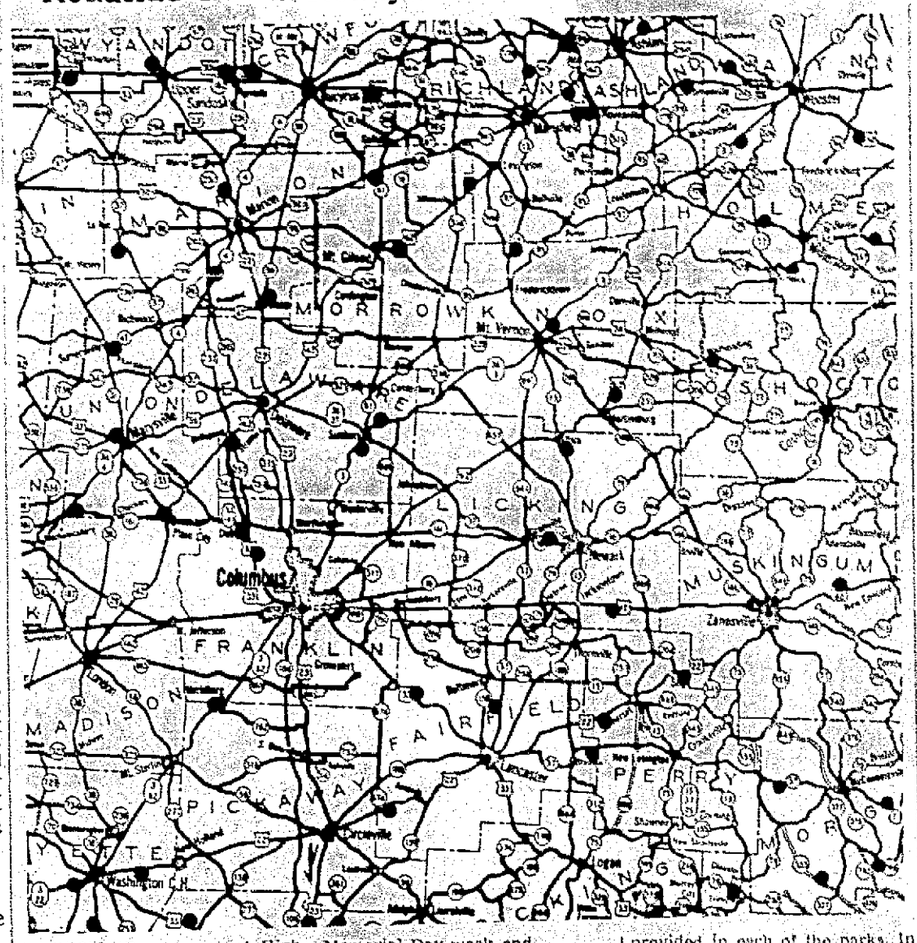
TIME CHANGE UNLIKELY

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., May 20—Prospects that Dayton would remain on "slow" time seemed fairly certain today. A motion to restore the city to eastern war time was tabled last night by the city commission. Dayton is the only major municipality in Ohio observing the hour-slower time schedule established Feb. 21 by the state legislature.

Roadside Parks Ready for Gas-Rationed Motorists



All Ohio Department of Highways roadside parks, come Memorial Day, will be ready to receive the army of Buckeye motorists and their families seeking a quiet spot for a little relaxation and perhaps a picnic dinner.

Director H. G. Sours has announced that the "welcome" sign will be up everywhere for the Memorial Day week-end.

There are 278 roadside parks scattered over the state. Workmen have been busy for weeks putting them in shape for use this summer.

Picnic tables, out-door fireplaces, firewood, drinking water tested by the Ohio Department of Health, and toilet facilities are provided in each of the parks. In many of the parks there also are shelter houses, fishing is possible in some, soft ball fields are laid out in others and all are landscaped.

These parks, as the map above reveals, are located strategically, insofar as mileage is concerned. Any one of them in the pictured area may be reached with a minimum expenditure of gasoline or wear and tear on tires.

The parks are maintained by the highway department maintenance crews, and the highway patrol polices them against vandalism. Last year attendance at the parks was more than a half million greater than in 1941, totaling more than 4,000,000 persons.

Bucyrus Council Sets Lifeguard Salaries

BUCYRUS, May 20—Municipal pool lifeguard salaries were fixed and insurance on the park grounds was approved by city council Tuesday.

The finance committee was given a state highway report showing that the city would be required to pay one third, or $6,000 for improving North Sandusky avenue from the square to the city limits under a resurfacing program. If the committee reports favorably on the report work would be started within 10 days, it was reported to council by Mayor W. F. Whitesmimre.

Ordinance was also passed requiring that all persons who petition council for the closing of an alley or street must deposit $25 to cover costs of publication and recording and that any amount which may be left after all costs of the transaction are paid will be returned to the petitioner.

POPULAR RECREATION AREA. The park areas of the Miami conservancy district provide recreation for a half million people annual years. Parks and drives have been constructed at Taylorsville, Englewood, Huffman and Eagle Hill, near the Huffman dam. Tables, open ovens, drinking fountains, wells and sanitary facilities, as well as shelter houses, make the areas surrounding these lakes popular outing places.

At Englewood, Huffman and Taylorsville facilities for fishing have been developed. Under supervision of the Ohio division of conservation many spawning beds were placed in Englewood lake and in areas set aside as closed spawning areas for bass, bluegills, crappies and other fish. Brush shelters, placed in the fishing grounds, have improved fishing 50 per cent.

CRAPPIES PLENTIFUL. Lowell E. Binkley, fish management agent for district six has reported to Conservation Commissioner Don Waters that a creel census is again being operated at Taylorsville lake this year and the preliminary report indicates that crappies are once more providing the largest percentage of the catches.

Approximately 50 per cent of the fish being caught are crappies. Bluegills and largemouth bass complete the "big three" of the catches with 26.9 and 14 per cent respectively. Minnows provide the best bait for the crappies, while artificial baits are providing the best catches of bluegills and largemouth bass.

Dr. E. D. Sinke, Lakeview, reported the largest fish caught—a 26 inch walleye. Lew Hull, Turkeyfoot, reported that bass fishing is the best in many years at the lake. A similar report was obtained at Long Island where over one hundred legal-sized bass were reported caught in a single day. Lake Foreman Win Kinnan states that fishermen have been quite numerous at all the favorite fishing spots around the lake.

The fish are being caught at the rate of 2.25 legal-sized fish per hour and the fishermen are averaging 0.36 legal-sized fish per trip. Seventy-seven fishermen took home 721 legal-sized fish of the following species: crappies, channel catfish, bullheads, carp, bluegill, largemouth bass, perch, smallmouth bass and walleyed pike.

THIS AND THAT. There were 45 arrests and 45 convictions made by Ohio game protectors in April . . . fines totaled $795, with costs of $208.40 of which $149 in fines and $8.60 in costs were remitted by the justices hearing the cases . . . a total of 755,545 food-bearing and cover trees and shrubs were distributed by the Ohio Division of Conservation and Natural Resources last month. The second edition of "Conservation for Tomorrow's America," one of the conservation education books printed by the Ohio Division of Conservation and Natural Resources is on the press . . . a second printing was necessary due to the demand for the book both from Ohio sources and ouside sources . . . it is being sold at 50 cents per copy, although distributions to the schools was free . . . W. R. Wheelock, chief of the Inland Lakes and Parks Section reports that Ohio's inland lakes and parks are being placed in tip-top shape for the thousands of visitors that will use them this summer.

FLOOD NEWS SENDS GRAIN PRICES HIGHER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 20 — Flood news provided some bullish enthusiasm for grains today and prices advanced moderately, although inability to estimate the extent of crop damage served to limit buying. Wheat was in good demand and paced the upturn.

With trading in May contracts ending tomorrow there was considerable short-covering in May wheat, and that contract was up more than a cent at times. Pit rumors that flour ceilings might be advanced and reports the government had bought some cash wheat locally for distilling use aided the advance.

said, but Colin's force fought and groped its way slowly forward through the fog until it had seized all the high ground overlooking Holtz bay.

The southern force was held up by a heavy concentration of Japanese machine-gun fire in a pass of the high central ridge, but this pass eventually was cleared and patrols from the southern force made contact with the troops in the Holtz bay region.

"Our two forces thus have been merged," Stimson continued, "and are attacking the Japanese garrison which is largely concentrated near Chichagof harbor at the eastern end of the island."

Despite the difficulties encountered, including extremely cold weather, American casualties have been relatively light, the secretary said, and the troops have captured large quantities of enemy equipment and supplies, including an entire anti-aircraft battery with a complete supply of ammunition.

LEADERS UP A POINT TODAY

But Profit Taking Reduces Some Gains As Trading Progresses.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—Leading stocks got another foot up on recovery in today's market but early gains ranging from fractions to a point or more eventually were reduced by profit taking in many cases.

Revived investment demand, particularly in prime-rated issues of companies which may not be handicapped by post-war reconversion problems, served as the principal trend prop. News from virtually all battle fronts remained encouraging.

Bonds exhibited selective strength. Commodities were steady.

Stocks in the "new high" class—some ultimately slipped—included Loew's, Warner Bros., Texas Co., Omnibus, Sears Roebuck, Air Reducting, Westinghouse, Dow Chemical and Union Carbide.

The recent sprint of moving picture securities was attributed partly to growing box office receipts in addition to exceptionally pleasing first quarter earnings of some prominent film concerns.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I HAD not seen Stephen Redfield for days, and I had hoped that the memory of our last meeting would keep him from ever trying to speak to me again. But his present call was soft and ingratiating instead of hostile and threatening, and with a start I decided that there was some favor he wished of me.

Every instinct in me urged me to ignore the call. But I knew that until the moment when my father could give the word to Philip Verrizen to discharge Steve from the cast of the play in which he had made so signal a success, and then, as soon as possible afterward, could take the actor into custody because of his subversive activities against the government, we all must do nothing which would arouse his suspicions. Therefore, I turned and walked toward the "Exit" door from behind which his call had come.

Stephen Redfield's Demand

I pushed the door slightly ajar, and Stephen—standing almost in the opening—put out a hand to draw me through it. But I pulled away decidedly, and spoke in tones meticulously courteous, but all the more icy for his gesture.

"You called to me, I believe. Is there something you wish to say to me."

"Don't be like that," he pleaded. "I'm sorry I acted the way I did when we last met, but I was nearly out of my mind. And I think I'm going out of it again, though from a different cause this time. I must see you right away for a few minutes."

Madge Refuses to Follow

"Come out into the hall," I said, "and I will listen to you for two minutes. I cannot wait longer than that. I have an appointment."

"Can't you step in here?" he asked. "I certainly do not wish to say what I have to say in the public hall."

How like the despicable chap to consider only his own convenience! Then I wondered if he might not have a more sinister motive. It would be a choice bit of gossip if anyone should discover the leading man of my play and myself closeted in a confidential chat in the secluded landing behind the "Exit" door.

"I certainly will not talk to you in there," I said. "But you may come into my apartment for two minutes, if you like." I did not wait for his answer, but turning, went to my door, and knocked loudly.

Katharine answered the knock in our usual cautious fashion, opening the door only the length of the night chain, and standing well away from the opening, so that she might dodge back and slam the door if anyone hostile were standing outside. Her eyes were astonished question marks, but she said nothing, and did not need the warning finger which I put upon my lips before I spoke.

"I wish to bring Mr. Redfield in for a minute," I said. "He wishes to talk to me."

I felt the actor's presence immediately behind me, and then he spoke with elaborate courtesy. "Good afternoon, Mrs. Beckett," he said following me in. "I know you will understand when I tell you that I would like to speak with Mrs. Graham alone."

I caught the gleam in Katharine's eyes, and waited for her to speak before I did. Her hand was still on the door, and she swung it shut before facing the actor.

"That, of course," she said coldly, "is for Mrs. Graham to decide."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Dietary Needs of Aged

WARTIME rationing finds many of our population groups in the need of special dietary planning. One great group is that of the aged, which we may put roughly as anybody over 60.

Certain philosophic misconceptions should be straightened out in any family or community where this problem is pressing. The first is that people in the old-age groups should not be regarded as those who have passed their usefulness and can be put off with anything that is left over.

Those over 60 constitute a larger population group than ever before in the history of our country. They are still able to do a great deal of work and can take the place in industry of younger men and women who have been called to war work—provided they are given good nourishment.

The dominant thought of most people about elderly people's food is that they should be abstemious. This has no scientific foundation and is probably directly harmful. The picture of the tea-and-toast schedule for Grandma is outmoded.

The idea summarized in the phrase, "less food for old people," hinges on the fallacy that for them energy is so curtailed that starches, vegetables, some fat and a minimum of protein intake should suffice. In that way old people exist, but do not live. If we wish to make them efficient, we must give them a full, well-balanced diet.

Another factor in the problem can be pointed up by comparing infant feeding with old-age feeding. The baby has formed no food habits; he can be fed the most rigorously scientific diet and he will take it because he is under control. Old people have usually formed very definite food habits, prejudices and likes, and if there is any one principle in the treatment of the aged, it is that sudden changes are bad for them.

Protein, which is most easily obtained in animal foods—meat, milk and eggs—is necessary for elderly people at the same ratio as for others: about 1 gram per kilo of body weight, which would be for the person of average weight, 1/6 pound per day. The idea that protein adds to the discomfort of arthritis, chronic rheumatism or increases the hazards of heart disease, high blood pressure, kidney disease and apoplexy has long been outmoded.

Fat, on the other hand, is likely to be harmful in the diseases just mentioned and if there is any one particular part of the old-age dietary which should be cut down, it is in the department of fat.

The following dietary suggestions for the old have just been published by the American Medical association:

"Elderly people should start the day with a good breakfast. It should include some substantial protein, and whatever else depends on body weight and activity.

"Elderly people should eat fat sparingly, even as the middle-aged should use it cautiously.

"Tea and coffee are useful stimulants.

"Food and water (hot drink) taken at regular intervals revive the old. Food is the best sleep producer even though early wakefulness follows.

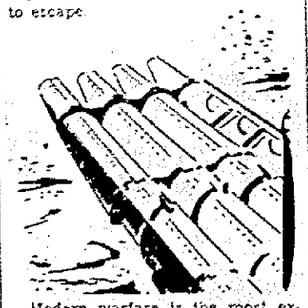
"Hunger lessens as age advances. Condiments, broth and relishes have a definite place.

"Vitamin storage begins to fail with age. We are able to compensate for these losses with vitamins (fruit juices, green vegetables), iron (spinach), calcium (milk) and a balanced diet."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

4 for 1

U. S. destroyers and other anti-submarine vessels of the Navy are equipped with quadruple tubes, meaning they are capable of firing four torpedoes simultaneously, making it more difficult for the target to escape.



Modern warfare is the most expensive destruction the world has ever experienced both for the destroyed and the destroyer. There is no point where we can stop in this war this side of peace so all of us will be required to continue our War Bond purchases and increase them.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, May 21

WITH sufficient and clever insight into affairs, business and personal, this might be a day of fairly successful prospects. There is a menace of being caught off balance by rash, quick and impetuous or quarrelsome impulses, inviting rancor and revenge. An aspect of the Sun incites to swift and clever action, with undercurrents that might foster good results.

Those whose birthday it is may have moderate success if they use tact, reserve and not rash and impulsive methods, inviting reprisals. This applies to business as well as personal relations. Dealings would be more successful in connection with political, fraternal groups, or through undercover or tacit agreements.

A child born on this day may be versatile, clever and shrewd, with refinement of thought and ideals. It should succeed in a professional career.
